P R E F A C E

It gives me great pleasure to place before scholars the Fourth Volume of the Critical Edition of the Vālmiki-Rāmāyana, comprising the Kīśkīndhākāṇḍa edited by Prof D R Mankad

I am also glad that the Sundarakāṇḍa edited by Prof G C Jhala is sent to the Press. The Yuddhakāṇḍa is completely constituted by the Editor, Dr P L Vaidya, the General Editor of the Mahābhārata, Poona. The General Editor will constitute the Uttarakāṇḍa when the four microfilms ( Ñ1 2 and V1 2 ) are collated

My sincere thanks are due to the Vice-Chancellor, Dr C S Patel for the keen interest he is showing in the Rāmāyana. To Dr (Mrs) Hansaben J Mehta, the first Vice-Chancellor who opened the Rāmāyana Department, I am no doubt very grateful for her continuous interest in our work in spite of her being in a foreign country. To the University Grants Commission and to the Gujarat Government I am thankful for the financial help to the Rāmāyana Department.

I am also thankful to the Staff of the Rāmāyana Department for their sincere co-operation, and to the Director, Oriental Institute, for the interest he has taken. I thank very heartily the Manager of the University Press for help in various ways.

INTRODUCTION

The Critical Edition of the Kīṣkindhākāṇḍa of the Vālmīki-Rāmāyana is based on 32 MSS. These MSS are written, as in the case of the first three Kāṇḍas in the principal scripts such as Śāradā, Newārī, Maithilī, Bengālī, Devanāgarī, Telugu, Grantha and Malayālam. Of the 32 MSS 14 are common to the Kāṇḍas 1-4, 4 (V<sub>3</sub> B<sub>3</sub> D<sub>3</sub> 5) are common to 3 and 4, and 1 (B<sub>2</sub>) is common to 2-4. Three MSS (D<sub>2</sub> 9 M<sub>2</sub>) are common to the Kāṇḍas 1, 3 and 4, 1 (D<sub>11</sub>) is common to 1, 2 and 4, whereas 2 (D<sub>3</sub> 12) are common to 1 and 4. Seven new MSS (V<sub>1</sub> 2 B<sub>4</sub> D<sub>4</sub> 13 T<sub>3</sub> M<sub>3</sub>) are utilized for this Kāṇḍa. The MSS are fairly representative of different periods as they range from A D 1020 to A D 1848. The commentaries of Udāri Varadarāja (earlier than A D 1250), Rāmānuja (14th century), Maheśvara-tīrtha (c A D 1550), Govindarāja (c A D 1600), Katakayogindra (c A D 1650) and Nāgeśa Bhatta (c A D 1700) have been also regularly utilized for the purpose of variants. All these six commentators hail from South India and comment upon the Southern text of the Rāmāyana. The Bengālī commentator Lokanātha Cakravartī has, however, commented upon the Bengālī text of the Rāmāyana. He very often refers to Vimalabodha and Sarvajña-Nārāyana (both between A D 1100 and 1300), the old commentators of both the Rāmāyana and the Mahābhārata, and quotes from their commentaries on the Rāmāyana which are not available at present.

The 32 MSS utilized for this Kāṇḍa are as follows

The Critical Edition

The text as printed, here, consists of

( 1 ) The constituted Text This is the text accepted by us and printed in bold black letters above the foot-notes on every page

( 2 ) Individual Readings These are recorded in the foot-notes under the respective number of the stanza of the constituted text

( 3 ) Star Passages These are given in the foot-notes and they are given running numbers and these numbers are marked by a star ( * ) These passages are of two types

( a ) Substitute Passages These are to be taken in place of certain lines of the constituted text Therefore, they do not affect the total number of stanzas in the text, as they are taken purely as substituted for certain lines of the constituted text, though so far as the matter is concerned, they, sometimes, contain certain additional matter

( b ) Inserted Passages These are the remaining star passages in the foot-notes They are pure additions and the total number of stanzas in the constituted text is increased by so much

( 4 ) Appendix Passages These are for all practical purposes Inserted Passages, but because of their length, they are not put in the foot-notes, but are taken to an Appendix and therefore are called Appendix Passages These are pure additions and the total number of stanzas in the constituted text is increased by so much

In the Kiskindhākānda, the total number of the pure Inserted Passages is 888 and the total number of the Passages relegated to Appendix I is 26 This means that so much material has been added to the text of the Rāmāyana, which has, now, to be rejected, because of the evidence of the MS material This would have remained undetected but for this Critical edition This edition brings out the fact that about 1500 stanzas have been added to 1984 stanzas of the text Even these 1984 stanzas of the constituted text are likely to have much inserted matter in it, and it could be detected if we get MSS of the Rāmāyana preserving earlier traditions

The entire text is the result of the collation of several MSS that has been done for this Critical Edition. This collation has revealed that there are two recensions of the text one Northern and the other Southern. The Northern recension is subdivided into (1) the North-Western version which consists of Śaradā version (Ś), Newārī version (Ñ) and Devanāgarī version (D), (2) The North-Eastern version which consists of Newārī version (Ñ), Maithilī Version (V), Bengali version (B) and Devanāgarī version (D), and (3) the Western version. The Southern Recension is subdivided into Telugu (T), Grantha (G), Malayalam (M) and Devanāgarī (allied to S) versions.

The Uniformity of SR

It has been pointed out, time and again, by the General Editor that there is uniformity in the SR and that makes it more reliable.

The Kiskindhā Kāṇḍa confirms this uniformity further. We shall first take up the Appendix Passages. These are 26 in number. Out of these, 8 are found in the SR and 18 in the NR. The eight SR passages occur thus:

| App I              | MSS.                                     |
|--------------------|------------------------------------------|
| Passage No 1 — — — | D <sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 S                  |
| „ „ 2 — — —        | D <sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 S                  |
| „ „ 3 — — —        | D <sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 S                  |
| „ „ 4 — — —        | D <sub>3</sub> 5 6 8-11 S                |
| „ „ 14 — — —       | D <sub>5</sub> -10 S                     |
| „ „ 15 — — —       | D <sub>5</sub> 11 8-10 S                 |
| „ „ 16 — — —       | B <sub>4</sub> D <sub>3</sub> 5 6 8-11 S |
| „ „ 17 — — —       | B <sub>4</sub> D <sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 S   |

It will thus be seen that all these 8 passages occur in all the 14 MSS of S (i.e. D<sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 T<sub>1</sub> 2 3 G<sub>1</sub> 2 3 M<sub>1</sub> 2 3). Nos 4, 14, 16 and 17 are also seen in some additional MSS of NR like D<sub>3</sub> 11 (No 4), D<sub>7</sub> (No 14), D<sub>3</sub> 11 B<sub>4</sub> (No 16 and B<sub>4</sub> No 17). Thus all these Appendix Passages are found in all the S MSS, though there are different readings in the S MSS themselves. But these 8 passages have in all 542 lines and all these lines are found in all the 14 S MSS. This proves the Uniformity of SR.

If we take the star passages, we find the same position. The star passages found in all the S MSS are divided here in two groups (a) those found in all the S MSS only, and (b) those found in all S and some N MSS.

(a) The following are the passages found in all the S MSS only.

(Ins.) 4, 5, 9, 10, 11, 15, 23, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 38, 40, 44, 46, 55, 63, 65, 68, 105, 109, 121, 140, 142, 152, 157, 196, 198, 223, 224, 228, 230, 245, 279, 299, 302, 314, 321, 323, 327, 338, 340, 347, 354, 367, 372, 390, 397, 398, 401, 410, 442, 492, 498, 504, 516, 527, 561, 583, 600, 623, 624, 644, 957, 971, 989, 1021, 1022, 1049, 1058, 1067, 1082, 1123, 1150, 1157, 1163, 1168, 1169, 1200, 1204, 1253, 1374.

(Subst.) 67, 69, 237, 486, 990.

(b) The following are found in all S and some N MSS.

(Ins.) 51, 54, 81, 87, 88, 89, 115, 144, 147, 206, 218, 233, 235, 238, 239, 243, 246, 289, 295, 305, 319, 322, 339, 341, 342, 346, 356, 370, 408, 411, 417, 465, 509, 510, 526, 535, 539, 540, 541, 612, 616, 991, 1045, 1072, 1073, 1111, 1114, 1136, 1348, 1354, 1356, 1398, 1402, and (subst.) 139.

It is found that there are in all 161 passages found in one or more S MSS. Out of these, 146 passages are found in all the S MSS (i.e. <sup>a</sup> and <sup>b</sup> above), leaving a very small minority of cases where passages are found in some, and not all, S MSS.

This also proves the uniformity of the SR.

The Growth of the SR

All these passages—Appendix, Inserted and Substitute—are seen in the SR, but none of them is seen in the NR. In the SR, they establish a uniform character of all the S MSS. This circumstance shows that all these passages, which are found in the SR only, were not an integral part of the SR from the beginning. They must have been added to the SR, at a time later than the Rāmāyana text was received for the first time in the South from the North. At that time, all these passages were absent in the NR, as they are absent now, and therefore they would not be seen in the first S MS, which copied the NR text for the first time. But no such MS seems to have been preserved to day, as we do not find any S MS showing total absence of these passages. Thus we get two clear stages in the Growth of SR.

(1) The first stage is that in which the Rāmāyana Text was first received from the North in the South, and this text had none of these star passages including Appendix ones and which are found only in the S MSS to-day.

It should be, here, noted that our constituted text is, in a very large measure the same as the text of this stage i.e. the same as the text received for the first time in the South from the North. At that time, the Rāmāyana Text had no Star or Appendix passages which are, to-day, found either in the NR or in the SR. We have also eschewed out these passages (NR as well as SR) from our constituted text. In the constituted text we have mostly adopted the S readings. All this makes us bold to say that so far as our available MSS evidence takes us, our constituted text represents, in a very large measure, the text which was received for the first time in the South from the North.

In this connection, we have to consider the question as to when these star passages exclusive to the SR, were added to the text in the South. There is no answer to this available, but whenever it was done and whoever (one or more persons) did it, it seems to have been done all at one time. The uniformity of the SR indicates this. If these additions were done by stages we have no means to determine the same. But it is certain that all these additions were made before the time to which we are taken by the tradition of all the S MSS available now. Whatever it may be, we want to clarify one point in this connection. Whoever did this work of inflating the text seems to have approached the text of the first stage from two distinct view points. According to one view point, he seems to have considered the text received from the North as sacred and unviolable and therefore has preserved almost all the archaic forms etc., without taking any liberty with the text so received, but from another view point, it seems that he could not resist the temptation of idealising* characters—Rāma, Lakṣmana, Tārā, Vālin, Hanumat—of the text and also of elaborating descriptions and narrations wherever he thought fit, and thereby inflating the text to this extent.

Thus were added all these passages which are exclusive to the SR.

(2) Therefore, the second stage of the growth of the SR, was the addition of all these passages—Appendix, Inserted and Substitute—to the text of the first stage.

Is there any evidence to show a third stage of growth in the SR? If T G M represent real versions, we may answer this question in the affirmative. But the question of these versions seems to rest on slender grounds. I have not examined the question in details and I leave it open. If these versions are established then they would represent the third stage of the growth of the SR.

* It was this tendency which was responsible in adding the following stanza (see 147*)

नाह जानामि केयूरे नाह जानामि कुण्डले ।
नूपुरे स्वभिजानामि नित्य पादाभिवन्दनाह ।

This is seen in D1 : 5-11 T : G M. We have to reject the stanza in spite of its being so widely known.

The Growth of NR

Let us now see if there are any stages traceable of the growth of the Rāmāyana Text in the North

(1) The First stage evidently is that text which was composed by the ādikavi. It must have been a text quite brief and probably without embellishments—the UR Rāmāyana. No MS preserving this text is available to-day

(2) Then the text must have gone on expanding : i.e. the Second stage is the stage of expansion. Through the course of centuries, several additions must have been made to the text of the ādikavi, till we come to the time when it was transmitted to the South. During the course of these centuries the text was considerably inflated. To talk of Kiskindhākānda, the following are the occasions on which inflation could have been made: description of Pampā, speeches and lamentations of Tārā, speeches of Rāma, Vālin and Hanumat, description of monsoon and autumn, description of geographical details given to the search-parties which went in all the four directions. All these are occasions where additions could easily be made and must have been made during these centuries. But these additions were all completed by the time the text was transmitted to the South : i.e. the time of our constituted text

(3) The Third stage is that of additions of star passages including the Appendix ones, exclusive to the NR. But here there is a real difference between the SR and the NR. Whereas in the SR, as we have just seen, all such passages are uniformly added to all the S MSS, it is not so in the NR.

Taking the Appendix Passages, we find that there are 18 passages which are exclusive to the NR. Out of these 18, the following 8 are found in all the N MSS: 7, 9, 10, 13, 18, 20, 21, 24—all these are found in Ś1 N̄ V B D1-4 7 11-13 : i.e. in all the NE and NW MSS. One (No 11) is found in N̄2 V B D7 : i.e. in the NE only. Two are found in the NW only—No 12 in Ś1 N̄1 D1-4 11-13 and No 26 in Ś1 N̄1 D2 11-13. One (No 22) is found in all the NE MSS plus D11 (W). One (No 5) is found in N̄2 V2 B D3 4 7 11 : i.e. in all the NE MSS (except V1) + D3 4 11. One (No 19) is found in all the NE MSS plus Ś1 D3 11, 12 (NW). One (No 25) is found in some NE MSS and some NW MSS, while two (Nos 6 and 8) are found in isolated MSS (D5 7, B D3). This shows that there is no uniformity in the NR so far as these passages are concerned.

The same is the position in the star passages. We find that the following are the passages which are found in all the NW and NE MSS

All NW (Ś1 D2 12 13) (Ins) 22, 30, 37, 43, 57, 79, 85, 88, 89, 94, 96, 98, 99, 104, 106, 112, 124, 141, 168, 192, 202, 205, 207, 240, 242, 246, 246(A), 251, 252, 259, 260, 261, 262, 298, 313, 322, 343, 345, 349, 352, 364, 365, 382, 387, 392, 399, 400, 444, 450, 451, 458, 459, 460, 469, 470, 475, 477, 484, 496, 499, 511, 514, 515, 517, 521, 523, 544, 546, 547, 551, 554, 559, 560, 562, 576, 598, 602, 603, 605, 615, 621, 625, 628, 634, 641, 645, 649, 650, 651, 653, 654, 655, 661, 662, 663, 664, 673, 677, 679, 680, 688, 752, 754, 760, 770, 771, 792, 797, 799, 806, 809, 810, 812, 822, 826, 828, 833, 834, 835, 837, 840, 844, 854, 857, 866, 867(D), 873, 874, 875, 876, 878, 881, 882, 887, 888, 889, 892, 898, 903, 904, 907, 911, 912, 919, 922, 924, 930, 931, 933, 934, 935, 939, 940, 946, 950, 951, 953, 954, 956, 976, 979, 982, 1008, 1012, 1013, 1030, 1032, 1037, 1048, 1054, 1075, 1078, 1083, 1086, 1087, 1089, 1094, 1103, 1104, 1109, 1110, 1116, 1118, 1120, 1121, 1122, 1127, 1132, 1133, 1148, 1149, 1152, 1153, 1155, 1158, 1162, 1164, 1166, 1167, 1170, 1171, 1177, 1182, 1185, 1189, 1190, 1191, 1192, 1201, 1207, 1212, 1213, 1214, 1216, 1219, 1220, 1221, 1225, 1229, 1230, 1236, 1237, 1241, 1243, 1247, 1248, 1256, 1257, 1259, 1266, 1267, 1269, 1270, 1273, 1274, 1276, 1277, 1281, 1287, 1288, 1289, 1291, 1292, 1294, 1295, 1297, 1299, 1303, 1309, 1313, 1315, 1316, 1318, 1321, 1325, 1326, 1327, 1330, 1333, 1347, 1349, 1358, 1359, 1372, 1373, 1375, 1388, 1389, 1401, 1404 and 1406,

(Subst) 1, 2, 18, 20, 71, 95, 101, 107, 113, 117, 122, 128, 129, 130, 135, 159, 161, 165, 191, 201, 209, 214, 216, 225, 236, 244, 250, 257, 283, 285, 291, 293, 303, 336, 350, 362, 418, 432, 436, 437, 438, 447, 462, 464, 466, 471, 476, 478, 483, 493, 501, 502, 503, 505, 519, 522, 524, 525, 548, 558, 574, 593, 595, 599, 607, 608, 610, 611, 613, 618, 620, 626, 631, 632, 636, 638, 643, 691, 699,

746, 749, 758, 763, 767, 774, 776, 791, 811, 814, 817, 821, 823, 831, 838, 843, 851, 862, 865, 867 (B, C), 868, 870, 871, 879, 884, 890, 896, 905, 915, 920, 925, 927, 932, 942, 945, 958, 960, 963, 968, 972, 973, 975, 978, 981, 984, 986, 1002, 1016, 1019, 1026, 1027, 1029, 1033, 1036, 1044, 1047, 1056, 1059, 1060, 1065, 1077, 1093, 1097, 1105, 1112, 1117, 1119, 1124, 1126, 1130, 1131, 1137, 1143, 1146, 1154, 1165, 1195, 1197, 1199, 1209, 1210, 1215, 1226, 1228, 1235, 1239, 1240, 1242, 1244, 1251, 1254, 1260, 1261, 1262, 1268, 1298, 1302, 1311, 1312, 1314, 1317, 1322, 1357, 1363, 1366, 1370, 1386, 1399 and 1405

Of the above long list of 459 passages, 9 are found in all NW MSS only, 432 passages are common to all NW + one or more of the rest of NR, and 18 passages are common to all NW + one or more of the rest of NR + one or more MSS of SR also

All NE (i.e. Ñ V B D<sub>1</sub>)

(Ins) 106, 177, 240, 252, 259, 345, 469, 499, 511, 544, 621, 654, 655, 797, 799, 867, 907, 924, 930, 931, 934, 940, 950, 951, 956, 979, 1008, 1012, 1030, 1054, 1086, 1109, 1121, 1122, 1149, 1162, 1166, 1167, 1171, 1189, 1276, 1277,

(Subst) 161, 165, 191, 199, 209, 250, 291, 336, 350, 436, 464, 466, 471, 501, 502, 503, 525, 618, 620, 626, 643, 767, 776, 868, 870, 972, 973, 978, 1036, 1130 and 1161

Of the above 73 passages, only 2 are common to all NE MSS only, 66 are found in all NE + one or more of the rest of NR, and only 5 are found in all NE + one or more of the rest of NR + one or more of the SR MSS

Thus there are in all 1249 passages which are found in one or more N MSS (NW or NE). Out of these, 459 passages are found in all the NW MSS and 73 passages are found in all the NE MSS

This shows that the uniformity found in the SR is not found in the NR, although NW seems to be more uniform than NE

The Western Version

The General Editor had postulated a Western Version of the R, in his Introduction to the Bāla-Kānda, but he gave up his stand in his Introduction to the Aranyakānda. The question is really doubtful. But I examine it here, confining myself to the evidence of this Kānda only

There are in all 13 Devanāgarī MSS utilised for this Kānda. Out of these 13, D<sub>3</sub> 8-10 i.e. 5 MSS almost invariably go with the SR. D<sub>7</sub> almost always goes with the NE version. Out of the remaining 7 D MSS, D<sub>2</sub> 12-13 almost always go with Ś<sub>1</sub> i.e. with the NW version. Thus NW version is constituted by Ś<sub>1</sub> D<sub>2</sub> 12-13. Then there remain D<sub>1</sub> 3-4-11 and the General Editor had taken these four MSS to represent the Western version

I have examined these four MSS from this point of view, so far as this kānda is concerned. I give below the analysis of these 4 MSS

D<sub>3</sub>

I shall first take up the Appendix passages and settle the position of D<sub>3</sub> therein

It is found that

D<sub>3</sub> goes with S 2 times (Nos 4, 16)

D<sub>3</sub> goes with NE 2 times (Nos 5, 8)

D<sub>3</sub> goes with NW only once (No 12)

D<sub>3</sub> goes with both NE and NW 10 times (Nos 7, 9, 10, 13, 18, 19, 20, 21, 24 and 25)

I do not take into consideration the cases where D<sub>3</sub> goes with NE and NW both together because wherever NE and NW go together, the question of separate versions does not arise. It is all one Northern recension. Thus we find that out of the remaining five cases D<sub>3</sub> goes once with NW, twice with NE and twice with S, which suggests that the character of D<sub>3</sub> manifests a joint influence of SR, NE and NW.

This is corroborated by an analysis of the star passages which is given below

D<sub>3</sub> going with ( some or all MSS of ) NE

( Ins ) 59, 72, 93, 162, 221, 222, 238(B, D), 256, 264, 266, 320, 325, 451(B), 587, 588, 597, 601, 636, 652, 689, 709, 712, 783, 824, 1069, 1187, 1271, 1290, 1293, 1300, 1304, 1306, 1307, 1320, 1328, 1334, 1336, 1338, 1340, 1342, 1343, 1346 and 1378,

D<sub>3</sub> going with D<sub>11</sub> only

( Ins ) 130, 131, 138, 146, 153, 155, 167, 169, 170, 185, 188, 193, 208, 209, 210, 211, 234, 254, 275, 334, 337, 413, 426, 428, 448, 473, 490, 491, 524, 529, 531, 541(A), 543, 557, 579, 584, 590, 655(B), 668, 672, 685, 691, 700, 713, 748 and 947,

D<sub>3</sub> going with D<sub>1</sub> and D<sub>11</sub> only

( Ins ) 555, 703 and 1039

Thus we get the following result—

$D_3 + D_1 = 3$ ,  $D_3 + D_{11} = 56$  and  $D_3 + D_1 + D_{11} = 3$ .

It is also found that D<sub>3</sub> goes 51 times with NW, 70 times with NE and 17 times with SR

D<sub>11</sub>

Now we consider the case of D<sub>11</sub>

Taking first the Appendix Passages, it is found that

D<sub>11</sub> goes with SR 2 times ( Passage Nos 4, 16 )

D<sub>11</sub> goes with NE 2 times ( Nos 5, 22 )

D<sub>11</sub> goes with NW 2 times ( Nos 12, 26 )

D<sub>11</sub> goes with NE + NW 10 times

Not considering the cases where it goes with NE and NW both, we find that out of the remaining six cases, it goes twice with SR, twice with NE and twice with NW. Thus here also we find that the character of D<sub>11</sub> shows the cumulative influence of SR, NE and NW

This is corroborated by the Star Passages. I give below the position—

D<sub>11</sub> going with NE—

( Ins ) 222, 238(B, D), 587, 588, 597, 601, 652, 666, 689, 708, 710, 712, 743, 779, 783, 797, 824, 829, 861, 983, 1018, 1019, 1042, 1064, 1271, 1275, 1290, 1293, 1300, 1304, 1306, 1320, 1328, 1334, 1335, 1336, 1338, 1340, 1342, 1343, 1346, 1376, 1378 and 1387,

It is thus found that D11 goes 26 times with NW, 80 times with NE and 23 times with SR

D1

The position of D1 is as under

This shows that D1 goes 52 times with NW, 17 times with NE and 27 times with SR

D4

(Subst) 705 and 884.

This shows that D<sub>4</sub> goes 66 times with NW, 34 times with NE and 24 times with SR

Thus it appears that each of D<sub>1</sub>, D<sub>3</sub>, D<sub>4</sub> and D<sub>11</sub> shares collectively the features of NW, NE and SR. Moreover they all hail from the Western India. In view of this, it is desirable to take them to represent a separate Western Version of the N recension.

Evidence of Ñ<sub>1</sub>

Ñ<sub>1</sub> is our oldest known MS of the R. In the beginning, it was taken that Ñ<sub>1</sub> represented NE version, but in his Introduction to the Aranyakāṇḍa (p. xlv), the General Editor has shown that it, very often, goes with NW. The evidence of this kāṇḍa is conclusive in this respect.

In the Appendix passages, out of 16 passages found in the NR—

Ñ<sub>1</sub> goes with NW in passage Nos 12 and 26,

Ñ<sub>1</sub> does not go with NE in passage No, 11, and

Ñ<sub>1</sub> goes with NE and NW both, in 13 passages

This indicates that Ñ<sub>1</sub> goes more with NW than with NE

But the evidence of the Star passages is more conclusive. It is as under

Ñ<sub>1</sub> going with NE—

(Ins) 177, 199 and 724

Ñ<sub>1</sub> going with NW—

(Ins) 99, 112, 124, 202, 261, 263, 322, 335, 343, 349, 352, 364, 365, 382, 387, 400, 458, 459, 485, 506, 515, 523, 554, 598, 615, 629, 645, 650, 653, 664, 677, 679, 688, 704, 706, 719, 730, 752, 770, 792, 798, 805, 806, 808, 809, 818, 826, 828, 833, 835, 840, 849, 866, 867(A, D), 875, 876, 881, 882, 933, 935, 939, 945, 946, 953, 954, 1005, 1013, 1026, 1037, 1048, 1065, 1110, 1116, 1120, 1127, 1132, 1133, 1143, 1153, 1177, 1212, 1214, 1216, 1229, 1230, 1237, 1246, 1247, 1267, 1270, 1288, 1313, 1315 and 1347, (Subst) 71, 75, 95, 101, 104, 107, 113, 128, 129, 130, 135, 164, 201, 207, 214, 236, 244, 257, 283, 285, 293, 303, 362, 371, 392, 418, 432, 438, 447, 462, 476, 478, 483, 493, 524, 548, 574, 595, 610, 611, 634, 638, 691, 699, 718, 735, 749, 758, 763, 791, 814, 823, 831, 851, 867(B), 905, 920, 925, 927, 942, 958, 960, 966, 968, 1016, 1019, 1033, 1047, 1052, 1056, 1059, 1105, 1112, 1115, 1126, 1131, 1137, 1146, 1180, 1197, 1199, 1226, 1235, 1240, 1245, 1260, 1298, 1302, 1312, 1314 and 1322.

This analysis clearly shows that in certain cases Ñ<sub>1</sub> goes with NE only, but these are very few cases. It also goes with NW only and that too in a large number of cases. And there are cases where it does not go with either. But, on the whole, it goes more with NW.

Now in this connection, the point worthy of note is this that there are some cases in which Ñ<sub>1</sub> does not go with NE, NW or S i.e. it has its own tradition. Would this not mean that Ñ<sub>1</sub> and NW (and for the matter of that even NE) meet only at such a period, when these exclusive passages were not present in the MSS ancestral to Ñ<sub>1</sub>? If it were not so, these exclusive passages would have been seen to-day in NW and NE.

Ñ<sub>1</sub> was copied in 1020 A.D. Before that date, these exclusive passages were added to its ancestral MSS. Thus, we have to posit three periods of growth

(1) 1020 A.D., the date of Ñ<sub>1</sub>

(2) A period before 1020 A.D., during which the passages exclusive to Ñ<sub>1</sub> were added to its ancestral MSS

(3) A period before the period covered by (2) above, during which NW (and NE also) drew from these MSS ancestral to Ñ<sub>1</sub>

Episodes

This kāṇḍa contains the major episode of Vālin and Sugrīva—the two Vānara brothers. They were the sons of Rikṣa, Vālin being elder of the two. Vālin occupied the throne of Kīśkindhā, a guhā fortress in the mountain for tresses of Rśyamūka, Malaya and Prasravana.

Vālin is described as very powerful. He could go to all the four ends of the Earth before sunrise. It seems that his power had made him arrogant and he had usurped Rumā, the wife of his brother Sugrīva. The name of his own wife was Tārā who has been given in the Rāmāyana a character of a noble, wise, learned and experienced lady.

There was a Dānava called Dundubhi, who wanted a fighter with him. He came to Vālin, challenged him and was ultimately killed by Vālin, and it is said that Vālin threw the dead body of the Dānava a yojana away, by the tip of his toe. The dead body fell in the precincts of the Āśrama of the sage Matanga, who cursed Vālin that if he or any of his officers entered that area of one yojana, they would be immediately killed.

Māyāvī, the brother of Dundubhi wanting to revenge the death of Dundubhi, went to Kīśkindhā and asked Vālin to come out. Vālin came out followed by Sugrīva, and Māyāvī entered a cave, into which Vālin also went, asking Sugrīva to guard the door of the cave. One whole year passed by, but Vālin did not come out. At the end of the year, seeing blood coming out of the cave and taking Vālin to have been killed, Sugrīva covered the mouth of the cave with big stones, went back to Kīśkindhā and started ruling there. But Vālin came back and considering Sugrīva to be treacherous, asked him to go out of his kingdom and Sugrīva went on the mountain Rśyamūka which was safe for him due to the curse of the sage Mātanga, and stayed there. It was here that Rāma met Sugrīva and made an alliance with him. Later events of the life of Vālin and Sugrīva form an integral part of the Rāma story itself.

There is no other episode in this Kāṇḍa. The incident of Svayṃprabhā and that of Sampātī form the part of the Rāma story.

Rāma Story in this Kāṇḍa

The main story of Rāma moves further in this Kāṇḍa. The Kāṇḍa opens with Rāma and Lakṣmana having arrived in Pampā in search of Sītā. It is here that Hanumat approaches them and tells them about Sugrīva living on the opposite mountain Rśyamūka and asks them who they are. Both the brothers decide to make friends with Sugrīva and they go over to Rśyamūka. There an alliance is made between Rāma and Sugrīva, whereby the former agrees to kill Vālin and put Sugrīva on the throne and the latter agrees to help in searching out Sītā and in getting her back. This agreement is made in the presence of Fire. It is here that the episode of Vālin and Sugrīva is narrated in detail, but we have given it earlier.

Then occurs the fight between Vālin and Sugrīva, in which Rāma kills Vālin, remaining himself concealed behind trees. Vālin falls. Then follows a discussion between Rāma and Vālin about the legal and moral aspects of Rāma's conduct in killing Vālin, thus. Here also occur the speeches of Tārā and her lamentations.

Then Sugrīva is coronated and it is agreed between Rāma and Sugrīva that as it was monsoon prevalent then, Sugrīva should send out parties in search of Sītā after the monsoon was over. But even after the monsoon was over, Sugrīva remained plunged in sensual pleasures and at the instance of his elder brother, the angry Lakṣmana had to remind and threaten him about the consequences, if he did not keep his promise.

Sugrīva then comes out and sends out parties of Vānaras, each under one leader, in all the four directions, for searching out the whereabouts of Sītā.

Three parties return at the end of one month without being successful in finding out where Sītā was. The fourth party which went to the South under the leadership of Angada and which had Hanumat and others in it searched and searched in the thousands of peaks of the Vindhya, but could get no clue about Sītā. Thus searching they came to a cave. They were thirsty and hungry. They saw birds coming out of the cavern. They jumped into the cavern, could get water and food there and met there a woman who introduced herself as Svayṃprabhā, the daughter of Sāvarnī Manu. She guided them outside the cavern and they came to an end point of mountain range at the foot of which there was the big ocean.

Here they met Sampātī, the brother of Jatāyu. Sampātī learnt about the death of Jatāyu and then gave them the information that his son Supārśva had seen Rāvana carrying away a woman of white complexion. He also said that Rāvana lived in Lankā, which was across the ocean on the mountain Trīkūṭa.

Then the Vānaras decided to cross the ocean, go to Lankā and obtain news about Sītā. It was ultimately decided that Hanumat should cross the ocean and Hanumat stood on a hill called Mahendra in readiness to jump off beyond the ocean.

The Kāṇḍa ends here.

Time-Data in the Kiskindhākāṇḍa

While describing the Pampā in the first Sarga, it is said,

सुखानिलोऽयं सौमित्रे कालः प्रचुरमन्मथ ।
गन्धवान्सुरभिर्मासो जातपुष्पफलद्रुमः ॥ 6

and

अथ वसन्तः सौमित्रे नानाविहगनादितः ॥ 12

This means that Rāma arrived at the Pampā in Vasanta i.e. in the Spring season. The commentary Rāmāyana Śīromani takes Surabhī māsa as Caitra māsa and the commentary Bhūsana remarks इदानीं वसन्तवर्णनेन नगरनिर्गममारभ्य त्रयोदशवत्सरा गता इति गम्यते ।

Thus the events of this Kāṇḍa open in the month of Caitra or Vaiśākha.

We get another datum in the 25th Sarga, where Rāma says

पूर्वोऽयं वार्षिको मासः श्रावणः सलिलागमः ।
प्रवृत्ताः सौम्य चत्वारो मासाः वार्षिकसज्जिताः ॥ 12
कार्तिके समनुप्राप्ते त्वं रावणवधे यतः । 15<sup>ab</sup>

This is said on the occasion of Sugrīva's coronation. Therefore, Sugrīva's coronation took place in Śrāvana. The reading Śrāvana is supported by all the MSS. Thus Vālin was killed and Sugrīva was coronated three or four months after Rāma's arrival at Pampā. Commentators are at pains to explain pūrva and catvārah of the 12th verse. If Śrāvana was the first month (pūrva māsa) of monsoon, the four months of the rainy season would be over in Mārgaśīra or at the end of Kārtika, but Sugrīva is asked to be active in Kārtika (kārtike samanuprāpte), which would mean that the monsoon was over then.

Next datum we get in the 29th Sarga, where Rāma says —

चत्वारो वार्षिका मासा गता वर्षशतोपमाः । 32<sup>ab</sup>

व्यतीताश्चतुरो मासान् ॥ 45

Here, the commentators explain thus Cv चत्वारो वार्षिका मासा गता वर्षशतोपमा इति । आश्वयुजकार्तिकावपि शरन्मासौ किञ्चिद्वर्षसन्धाद्वार्षिकशब्देनोच्येते । तत्र श्रावणादयश्चत्वारो वार्षिका मासा सम्पन्ना भवन्ति । गता गतभूयिष्ठा कार्तिकान्ता वर्तन्ते इति यावत् । Cr and Cg also support this.

All this means that Sugrīva was aroused from his pleasures in or at the end of Kārtika. It was at this time that he sent out search-parties. Three of the parties came back at the end of one month, but the fourth party led by Angada and Hanumat took some more time.

We may take it that the three parties returned at the end of Mārgaśīrsa and the fourth party somewhere in the middle of Pausa

If this time-scheme is correct, Rāma did not begin his march against Rāvana on the Vijayādaśamī nor did he kill Rāvana on that day. According to this calculation, Rāma marched on Lankā after the middle of Pausa ( of the fourteenth year of his exile )

Change of metre at the end of a Sarga

Sanskrit works on Poetics ( e g Dandin ) require that in a Mahākāvya, in every Sarga, the last one or two stanzas should be in a metre different from the prevalent metre of the Sarga. The text of the Rāmāyana as is constituted here, shows this feature in some cases and does not show it in others. The accompanying table gives these details. It is evident from this table that there are the following cases

- ( 1 ) That a stanza or stanzas in different metre or metres are present at the end of a Sarga, but are omitted in one or the other MS
- ( 2 ) That no such st in a different metre is present at the end of a Sarga, but some MSS show a stanza or stanzas in a different metre at the end of the same Sarga
- ( 3 ) That no such st in a different metre occurs at the end of the Sarga and no known MS shows any such verse
- ( 4 ) That a st in a different metre occurs at the end of a Sarga and no known MS omits it

Table

Is there a stanza in a different metre at the end of the Sarga ?

The Vānaras

The question whether the Vānaras were a human tribe or were non-human monkeys, is, now, not so much debated. However, I have gathered evidence on this question as available in the Kiskindhākānda

I shall offer some references which give them the character of monkey

( 1 ) They are called Vānara, Kapī, Harī, Plavangama and Śākhāmrga. Words Vānara, Harī, Kapī and plavangama are used often, but Śākhāmrga is not used much. I give some references

- ( a ) सुग्रीवशाखामृगसेवित तम् । 4 1 49 ( no v 1 )
- ( b ) तत् शाखामृगा सर्वे । 4 2 10 ( D4 12 13 om )
- ( c ) शाखामृगो ह्यसि । 4 18 36 ( no v 1 )
- ( d ) अहो शाखामृगत्वं ते । 4 2 16<sup>ab</sup> ( M1 om )

( 2 ) Sugrīva says about himself नाह तामनुशोचामि प्राकृतो वानरोऽपि सन् । 4 7 7 (  $\acute{S}_1$  D1 2 4 12 13 om )

( 3 ) In 4 8 13-14, it is said that they sat on a Sālaśākhā

( 4 ) In 4 15 4, Vālin is described as दष्टाकराल ( an expression known to Gītā )

( 5 ) In 4 16 21 it is said that Sugrīva struck Vālin with a tree. The weapons used by them are stones and branches of trees etc, but not arrows

( 6 ) In 4 17 26, Vālin calls himself a Vanacara and a mrga

(7) In 4 18 34 Vālin argues that men catch animals (mrga) by nets etc., meaning he himself was a mrga

(8) Root 'plav' is used with reference to these Vānaras. It is used in the sense of 'jumping'

(a) झुवमाना 4 29 (v 1 D11 प्रेक्षमाणा)

(b) झुवमाना 4 2 10 (D11 क्रममाणा)

(c) पुप्लुवे 4 3 1 (D1 दुद्रुवे)

(9) 4 4 26 says गिरिवरमुरुचिक्रम प्रयात
स शुभमति सह रामलक्ष्मणाभ्याम् ।

Here, it is merely said that he went to the mountain along with Rāma and Lakṣmana. But B2-4 insert after 25<sup>ab</sup> two verses in which it is said that Hanumat asked them to ride on his back (āruhyatām). Also after 25, some MSS ins

मिथुरूप परित्यज्य वानर रूपमास्थित ।
वृष्टमारोप्य तौ वीरौ जगाम कपिकुञ्जर ॥

These are attempts to treat Hanumat as a monkey, but the Cr Ed does not support this

Now, I shall give such references as treat Vānaras as human beings

(1) There is no reference to their Tail. Nowhere, in this kānda is Hanumat, Sugrīva, or Vālin described as having a tail

(2) Hanumat, Sugrīva, Vālin and Tārā and even other Vānaras talk and argue like cultured learned men

(3) In 4 6 9, it is said that Sītā threw her Uttariya and ornaments at them. She would not do so, if they were not human beings

(4) Customs and rites that these Vānaras follow are all human and even Vedic

(a) Sugrīva offers his hand to Rāma (4 5 12) गृह्यता पाणिना पाणि and Rāma takes his hand (13)

(b) When an agreement is made between Sugrīva and Rāma, it is solemnised in the presence of Agni. It is said that Hanumat kindled fire. The kindled Agni was worshipped with flowers (4 4 15). Then both Rāma and Sugrīva made a pradakṣinā of the Fire (4 4 16)

(c) In 4 10 3, Sugrīva talks of a rāja-chatra of Vālin

(d) When Vālin came out to fight with Sugrīva the second time, it is said that Svastya-yana was performed (तत् स्वस्त्ययनं कृत्वा 4 16 10). Tārā made a pradakṣinā of Vālin

(e) Agnisamskāra of Vālin is purely a sāstric rite (see Sarga 24). A Śibikā was brought in which his body was put. It was carried to the bank of a river. It was decorated with ornaments, clothes, garlands etc. A citā was made (4 24 30). Angada and Sugrīva both together put the body on the pyre (4 24 40). Agni was kindled 'vidhivat' (41), 'apasavya' was done (41). At the end, they went to the river 'Udakam kartum' (42) and they sprinkled water over the ashes of Vālin (43)

(f) Sugrīva's coronation is also Vedic (See, 4 25 20-34). There was a pāndura chatra, sukla bālavyajana, hema-danda, ratnas, sarvabījausadhī, offshoots and flowers of milky trees, śukla vastras, śveta anulepana, akṣatā, jātārūpa (gold), priyangu, madhu, sarpiś, dadhī, vaiyāghra carma, vārāhī upānat, rocanā, manahśilā. Brāhmanas were fed (26)

There were 16 girls (kanyā) (25)

Mantravid men offered oblations, made pure by mantras, in the Agni which was kindled and which was kusaparistīrṇa (27)

Then Sugrīva was placed on a throne of gold well decorated He was placed facing East and various mantias were recited (28-9)

Then water brought from nadī, nada, all the tirthas and all the seas, and put in golden jars was sprinkled on Sugrīva by means of vrsabhaśṛṅgas and kāñcana kalaśas (29-33) This was sprinkled by Gaja, Gavākṣa, Gavaya, Śarabha, Gandhamādana, Maṇḍa, Dvīvida, Hanumat, Jāmbavat, and Nala (Nala is omitted by Ñ: V B D<sub>6</sub>-10)

(g) Custom of yauvarājya was prevalent amongst them and Angada was installed as Yuvarājṇ

(h) Vālin usurped Sugrīva's wife Rumā and Sugrīva treated Tārā as his wife after Vālin's death Such customs are seen in certain tribes

(5) These Vānaras worship Vedic Gods Agni is worshipped by them Sūrya and Indra are connected with the birth of Sugrīva and Vālin respectively and Marut (Vāyu) with the birth of Hanumat

Geographical Data in this Kānda

The scene of the first Sarga is Pampā which seems to be the name of both a river and a lake (see Critical Notes on st 2) At the end of the Sarga, it is said that both the brothers went to the mountain Rśyamūka Sarga 2, verses 1-12 say that seeing these two brothers coming to Rśyamūka, Sugrīva and his followers retired to another hill which is named as Malaya in 4 1 In 4 1, it is said that after Hanumat had talked to the two brothers, he went to Malaya from Rśyamūka

All this shows that Pampā, Rśyamūka and Malaya were in the vicinity of one another Praśravana on which Rāma lived during monsoon (26 1) was also there It should be noted that Praśravana is named as Mālyavat in 27 1 (See Critical Notes thereon) It is clear that the Rāmāyana is here describing some range of hills

Kiśkindhā, the capital of Vālin, was at some distance from Rśyamūka 13 1 says

ऋश्यमूकात्स धर्मात्मा किष्किन्धा लक्ष्मणाग्रज ।
जगाम सहसुग्रीवो बालिविक्रमपालिताम् ॥

Here is described the route from Rśyamūka to Kiśkindhā It is said that after passing through thickets etc, they came to a grove of trees, bounded on all sides by plantain trees (13 13) It was the āśrama of Saptajana sages And then it is said—

ते गवा दूरमध्वान तस्मात्सप्तजनाश्रमात् ।
ददृशुस्ता दुराधर्षा किष्किन्धा बालिपालिताम् ॥ 4 13 27

From Saptajana Āśrama, Kiśkindhā was at some distance It should be noted that they all went on foot and did not pass any night on the way

Kiśkindhā is described as a guhā or giri-guhā

The Geographical Details of the Sargas 39-42

When Sugrīva decided to send his Vānaras in search of Sītā, he made four parties of them and asked each party to go in one of the four directions to find out the whereabouts of Sītā And while sending out these parties, Sugrīva gave a list of places to be searched in that direction In this manner, he described first the East, then the South, then the West and then the North In describing these directions, he gave names of several rivers, countries, mountains, seas etc These are contained in Sargas 39 to 42

I have found that most of these names are also found in the Matsya Purāṇa 163 Mt<sup>1</sup> 163rd Adhyāya describes the exploits of Hiranyakasipu Hiranyaksipu, after getting the boon, harassed the whole world and the Purāṇakāra, in st 60-89 of this Adhyāya, has described how he shook and terrorised different rivers, countries, mountains, seas etc<sup>2</sup> The same verses are found in Harivamśa<sup>3</sup> (Hr II, 46 42) from which I have noted important readings Cf also Padma Purāṇa (Pm )

On comparison, it is found that the author of these four Sargas of the R has taken several stanzas verbatim from Mt 163 I shall, therefore, examine the whole question here I shall first give in parallel columns the text of Mt 163 60-89 and the corresponding lines from these Sargas and shall then discuss such questions as would arise from the comparison

(1) The Textual Considerations

On comparison, it will be seen that the Mt 60<sup>cd</sup> is entirely common to both. 61 in Mt has only Yamunā while the R (39 19<sup>cd</sup>) has Kālindī, Yamunā and Yāmuna mountain. Readings show that Yāmuna may be a forest also. 62 in Mt has Carmanvatī, Sindhu and Śona. 39 20<sup>ab</sup> in the R has Sarasvatī, Sindhu and Śona. Here practically all N MSS read in place of Sarasvatī and Sindhu, Melalaprabhavam Śonam, which seems to represent the original reading as is clear from Hr. Mt 62<sup>c</sup> reads Kamalaprabhavaścaiva, but here hamala is obviously a mistake for mehala.

Mt 64<sup>cd</sup> and 65<sup>ab</sup> require a critical examination. Ratnavaram in Mt is likely to be 'ratnavantam' as is seen from Hr and the R. Jambudvīpa of Mt is changed to Yavadvīpa in the R (with Jaladvīpa, Jvaladvīpa, Cayadvīpa, Janadvīpa as readings). The N MSS seem to read something like Jaladvīpa. V<sub>1</sub> omits 28 cd and 29 ab. It means that the reading Yavadvīpa is supported by B<sub>1</sub> V<sub>2</sub> 1 D<sub>5</sub> 6 8-10 I G M. When we see this position of the MSS and when we compare the R text with the Mt text, we come to the conclusion that Yavadvīpa is a later reading, the original reading being Jambudvīpa. This is supported by R 29<sup>c</sup>, which has Yavadvīpa, but where the Cr App shows—Ś<sub>1</sub> Ñ V B<sub>1</sub>-3 D<sub>1</sub> 2 4 7 11-13 जंबु, D<sub>3</sub> जंबुद्वीपमसिक्रम्य. This means that all the N MSS (including V), with the exception of B<sub>3</sub> 4, read 'jambu' here, which is seen in the Mt. Thus it is clear that Yavadvīpa is a correction seen in all the S MSS and in B<sub>3</sub> 4.

R 29<sup>a</sup> has सुवर्णरूप्यक, which is read variously by the MSS as सुवर्णकुट्टिम, °कृष्क, °कुट्टक, कुट्टक, °कुप्यक and °कुयक. D<sub>3</sub> reads द्वीप for चव. Ñ<sub>1</sub> reads सुवर्णकुट्टकद्वीप, D<sub>3</sub> 10 Ck t read सुवर्णरूप्यक द्वीप. Here is some attempt to read Suvarnadvīpa and it is mostly seen in the S MSS.

Thus some one, who knew of Yavadvīpa and Suvarnadvīpa, has tried to change the text of the R here.

Mt 76<sup>cd</sup> reads 'vidyutvat' but there is no doubt that it should be 'vidyutvān' and we see that Hr and the R have the reading 'vidyutvān'.

But this comparison shows that Mt 163 60-89 have several lines in common with the R. This raises the question of borrowing. Which of the two has borrowed? It will be seen that the place-names found in Mt are found distributed in the R, in four different directions. Now, if we say that Mt has taken these lines from the R, the question remains as to why Mt has not grouped them in the same order as is found in the R. If we say that the R has taken these lines from Mt then also the question remains to be answered as to why the R has distributed these names in different directions and on what principle.

A consideration of the whole position leads me to say that the R is the borrower. It has been already pointed out by the General Editor (R 1 37 Critical Notes) that Kīrti has shown that in the 37th, 45th, 46th and 70th Sargas of the Bālakāṇḍa, several lines are identical with or similar to the lines found in some of the Purāṇas. I have examined this whole question in detail. It is found that the R has copied from Vy in the Bālakāṇḍa at these three places.

1 In the 37th Sarga, it is narrated how Sagara got 60,000 sons. This narration is contained in st 4-19<sup>ab</sup>. These stanzas are more or less identical with Vy 87 154-164<sup>ab</sup>. B<sub>d</sub> and Mt also have this narration. So have other Purāṇas, but the text there is different. Thus it is clear that these st in the R have been taken from Vy. In the Vy, they occur in their proper place i.e. the Vy puts the narration while describing the genealogy of Ikṣvāku. But in the R, the story of Sagara does not form an integral part of the Rāma story.

2 In the 70th Sarga, st 4-12 give Janaka-genealogy. These stanzas are seen in Vy 88 3-15. Even these stanzas may not have been there in the original R. Some one who thought the genealogies must be recited has added them, taking them bodily from Vy.

3 Sargas 45 and 46 have the story of Diti and Indra in st 2-22 of the 45th and in 1-9 of the 46th. These 30 stanzas are taken from Vy (67 88-124). Bd (III 5 48-105) also has the same text as Vy. I have compared both the texts and have found that Bd has some lines additional which are not found in both Vy and R. Of course, so far as individual readings are concerned, the R text goes sometimes with Vy and sometimes with Bd. But this need not surprise us. Bd is not an independent Purāṇa. It is a version of Vy. Vy is the original Purāṇa and probably at the time when the R took these st, Bd did not exist as a separate Purāṇa, only Vy was there.

4 We have already seen how Mt 163 has several lines in common with the R.

5 We shall see that the four lines in the R (I 39, 36-37) are abridged from Vy.

6 We have one st in the R (32 12), which is also seen in the Mbh (12 166 24), but I have said that in this case both the R and the Mbh are likely to have a common source. (See Cr Notes 32 12.)

Thus it is clear that the R has taken several stanzas from Vy and Mt, and there are additions made to the original Rāma-story told by Vālmīki. These additions were made before the R-text bifurcated into NR and SR. All these stanzas are found in both NR and SR.

It is generally taken by the scholars that the earlier Purāṇas like Vy and Mt were compiled in c 4th cent A D. It may, therefore, be said that these additions to the R must have been made after the 4th cent A D and the bifurcation into NR and SR must have taken place at least a century or two later i.e. in c 6th cent A D.

But I want to record here my views about the compilation of the Purāṇas. We are, here, concerned with the genealogical chapters of the Purāṇas, because all these additions concern themselves with what is called Vamsa and Vamśānucarita. The story of Sagara, the story of Aditi and Indra, and of Hiranyakasipu are parts of Vamśānucarita. The genealogy of Janaka is a Vamsa. Now, I want to say that these Purāṇic genealogies were compiled at different times. The first compilation was made probably at the death of Rāma, the second was made in the days of, or just after the death of, Yudhishthira, the third was made in the days of 'Sāmprata' kings, the fourth was made in the days of Śisunāga and Kalki, the fifth was made probably in the days of Mahāpadma Nanda and the sixth and the last was made in the days of the last Āndhras or of the first Guptas.

And all these incidents, where additions are made to the R, are of pre-Rāma or Rāma days. I shall, therefore, not draw any conclusions as to the time when these additions were made to the R. They might have been made very much earlier than the 4th cent A D.

But all this proves that the R has several lines identical with some lines in Vy and Mt. We cannot say that both these have borrowed from the R. It is easier to believe that the R has taken from different sources. These lines, when found in Vy and Mt are found to be in their proper places, that is, the context requires them to be there. In the R, it is not so. The Sagara story, the story of Diti and Indra and the genealogy of Janaka do not form an essential part of the original kernel of Rāma-story and are, therefore, very likely taken from different sources and added later on.

Now I shall make certain observations, which are of considerable importance for the textual reconstruction of the epics.

Earlier I have given in parallel columns the verses found in the R and the Mt. A scrutiny of these verses reveals the fact that at several places the original readings seen in Mt are found in N MSS and not in S MSS. I shall give illustrations.

1 Mt 62° has kamalaprabhavascaiva śono, where, as I have already said, kamala is a mistake for mekala. Here in the R, Ś1 Ñ V1 2 B1-3 D1-4 7 11 13 read 'mekalaprabhavam śonam', while the remaining MSS i.e. V3 B4 D5 6 8-10 T G M read 'saravatim ca sindhum ca'. Thus it is clear that the original reading is preserved in the NW and the NE MSS and the S MSS have the changed reading.

2 Mt 64<sup>cd</sup> has Jambudvīpa and I have already shown that S MSS have the changed reading Yavadvīpa, while N MSS show readings which approximate to Jambudvīpa. Similarly, in the same line Sarvaratnopaśobhitam, which is the Mt reading i.e. the original reading is seen in N MSS, while S MSS have the changed reading Saptarājyopaśobhitam.

I shall not multiply cases, there are several. The same is the case with the other passages which the R has borrowed from Vy. I shall give only one case from each.

1 In the Sagara story, the R 1 37 16 cd has 'asamañja itī khyātam keśinī sagarātmajam'. Vy, at this place, reads Kākutstham for Keśinī. And we find that Ś1 Ñ2 V1-3 B1 2 4 D1 3 5 7 10 12 13 have Kākutstha. This means that only one S MS D11 (this D MS) have the original reading, while practically all the N MSS have it.

2 In the story of Diti, the R 1 45 17 has 'sarīravivara', while Vy 67 102 has 'sarīram vivrtam' and we find that Ś1 Ñ2 V B D1 3 5-7 10-13 have 'sarīram vivrtam'. The position is exactly the same as in the previous example. Only two S MSS D6 10 preserve the original reading, while practically all the N MSS have it.

3 In the Janaka genealogy, the R 1 70, 7<sup>cd</sup> is 'mahāvīrasya dhrtimān sudhrtih satyavikramah', while Vy 88, 9 cd has 'mahāvīryasya dhrtimān sudhrtistasya cātmaajah'. And we find that Ś1 Ñ2 V B D1-3 5 7 9 10 12 13 have 'mahāvīryasya' and Ś1 V4 B2 D1-3 5 7 9 12 have 'tasya cātmaajah'. This also shows that the N MSS preserve the original readings.

I shall not give other examples, there are several others of this type.

Can this be a question of what is called 'dynamic intrusion'? If so, it would mean that the SR and the NR both have taken these verses independently from the Purāṇic text current in their own regions. Let us see what is the evidence before us. We find the stanzas taken from the Mt 163, distributed in the R Sargas as under:

| Mt 163                              | R                                                  |

We find that the Mt verses are not put in the R in the same order. The order is broken in the case of Nos ( 2 ), ( 6 ), ( 11 ) and ( 12 ). If we take this to be a case of dynamic intrusion, we will have to say that the independent sources of the SR and the NR had this broken order in this manner as it is found here. I think it is too much to say so. This uneven distribution of the Mt verses in the R is a proof positive of this being not a case of dynamic intrusion.

This analysis brings out two points of importance for our textual reconstruction.

1 We find that at several places, the N MSS. are nearer the original readings of the Purāṇa texts from which the R has drawn. We have so far taken that the SR preserves the original readings of the R-text This analysis brings out the fact that, if so far as archaic forms are concerned the SR preserves the original readings, the NR also preserves the original readings at certain places This raises certain questions regarding textual reconstruction, but I do not want to go into that question here I am sure that in the whole text of the R, there will be other places also where the R has drawn from other sources And until we make a detailed study of all such cases, it is hazardous to say anything definite

But I want to point out one thing more in this connection The discussion about Yavadvīpa and Jambudvīpa, which I have made earlier, brings out the fact that in the R 4 39 28<sup>ad</sup>, the original reading Jambudvīpa is not preserved in any of the MSS collated by us The N MSS have words like Jala Jvala, Jana, Caya, but not Jambu That means that the original reading of the Purāna is not seen in any of the present MSS There are several such other cases in the Janaka-genealogy, the Sagara-story and the Aditi-story, where the original readings found in the Vāyu Purāna ( Vy ) are not found in any of the R MSS This, to my mind, indicates the growth of the R-text Taking Yavadvīpa and Jambudvīpa of the R 39 28<sup>ad</sup> as an example, I shall postulate three periods

1 The First Period This is the period when these passages were added, for the first time, to the R text and when the R-text had the original reading 'jambu' in it Jambu is not seen to day in any of the present MSS either S or N This must, therefore, be referred to a period prior to the period to which all our present S and N MSS take us

2 The Second Period This is the period when 'jambu' was changed to 'jala' etc, but not to 'yava' This change in the original reading is likely to have started some time before the bifurcation of the NR and the SR

3 The Third Period This is the period when 'jambu' was changed to 'yava' Yavadvīpa is found in all the S MSS, but we also find that the original reading ( eg the R 37 16<sup>ad</sup> where Keśinī is changed to Kākutstha ) is seen in one or two S MSS Therefore, these changes might have been just before or just after the bifurcation of the R-text into the NR and the SR

Yavadvīpa is not found in any of the Purānas Vy, as we have seen, has Yamadvīpa but not Yavadvīpa It is said that Yavadvīpa is referred to in the following passage of Vasudevahindī, an Apabhramśa work of the 5th cent A D<sup>1</sup>

तथ वमिजेऊण गओमि सुवण्णभूमिं, पुव्वयदिणामि पट्टणाणि हिड्डिऊण कमलपुर जवणदीप सिंहल च वल्लजेतूण

( Vasudevahindī by Saugharajagavī, p 146.)

Here the word is Javanadvīpa which would be rendered as Yavanadvīpa, but its occurrence along with Suvannabhūmī makes it plausible that it stands for Yavadvīpa

Yavadvīpa is referred to in Ptolemy's Geography as 'island of barley' This takes us to the 1st cent A D

Yavadvīpa might have been first substituted for 'jambu' in some NE MS as that coast would have more intimate knowledge of yavadvīpa

This is the result of a preliminary examination of these passages which are common to the R and the Vy or the Mt More detailed study is necessary for more definite result But even this preliminary examination reveals the following conclusions —

1 The R-text has had several additions even before it bifurcated into the NR and the SR This is clear from the Sagara-story, the Diti-story and the Janaka-story ( and these four Sargas ) all of which are found commonly in both the recensions

2 We have yet to search for more MSS of the R in order to reach the period after which such additions were made We are, therefore, very far away from the original R-text

The R 39 36-37 describe the Rākṣasas called Mandeha Rākṣasas. Mandeha Rākṣasas are not mentioned in any of the major Purāṇas, except in Vy and Bd. In the Jyotiṣpracāra chapter of these Purāṇas, there is a description of these Rākṣasas and I find that the above two stanzas of the R are abridged from the matter contained in Vy 50 162-7 and Bd II 21 109-116. Vy and Bd have common text for these stanzas, except for minor differences of readings. I give below in parallel columns these stanzas—the stanzas from Bd (with the readings from VY) and the stanzas from the R.

It will be seen that Bd calls these Rākṣasas by the name of Mandeha. Bd calls them sūryā-gnisamāna and the R calls them śailanibha, with śankhā and śrngā as readings for śaila. No MS shows the reading sūrya.

It is said in these two Purāṇas that these Rākṣasas had a curse from Prajāpati, but they were not to die and their bodies were never to be destroyed. These Rākṣasas desired to eat away the rising Sun and therefore, there was a fight (yuddha) between the Sun and the Rākṣasas. Now at the sunrise Brahmā, Devas and the Brāhmaṇas perform samdhyā-ceremony and throw the water from their palms into the water ( of the river or the sea ) This water is omkārasamyukta and gāyatrīābhimantrita and according to Vy , by this water these Rākṣasas are burnt , but they rise again and the Sun also goes on his travels in the sky protected by the Brāhmanas, Vālakhilya, Marīcis and the sages

To me this seems to be a glorification of the gāyatrīmantra and the samdhyā ceremony

A comparison of these four lines found in our constituted text with these lines of Vy and Bd , shows that much is lost in the R-text. These four lines merely say that the Rākṣasas hang on the peaks of mountains, they fall daily into the water at Sunrise and being scorched by the Sun hang again and again

Here, many details of Vy and Bd are lost but they are preserved in some of the MSS of the R The star passage 772 shows that several S MSS have a line which says that these Rākṣasas are killed by Brahmateja Similarly, several MSS read ' abhiṣapta ' for ' abhitapta ' in 37<sup>cd</sup> and this preserves the detail of curse found in Bd II, 21 109<sup>cd</sup> The star passage 773 shows that B<sub>1</sub> almost preserves completely the last two lines found in Bd and Vy

The Purāṇas say that there happened a fight between the Sun and the Rākṣasas This detail is not found in the R stanzas or in their different readings But it is found in the commentaries

रामायणशिरोमणि सूर्यस्योदयन प्रति उदयसमये सूर्येण योद्धुं गता इति शेषः ।

Ck ते सूर्योदयं प्रति प्राप्योर्ध्वमुखा सूर्येण सह युध्यमानाः ।

Ct सूर्यस्योदयन प्रति सूर्योदयं प्राप्योर्ध्वमुखा सूर्येण युध्यमानाः ।

How did these commentators know about their fight with the Sun ? Did they know the details given in Vy and Bd ? It does not seem likely that they did, as they do not give any such reference Then, had the R-text known to them any line corresponding to Bd 112 ab, which talks of their fight with the Sun ? Or had they before them other earlier commentaries from which they have taken this detail ?<sup>1</sup> we have found that though the constituted text has four lines, all the different MSS taken together read three more lines i.e. in all there are 7 lines It may be that there was a line in the R-text about this fight which is now not found in any of the MSS We have already seen that several original readings are not traceable in any of the MSS collated by us Thus the R-text tradition goes far beyond these MSS

Ck says इदं शैलशृङ्गेषु लम्बन्त इत्यादि श्लोकद्वयं प्रक्षिप्तमेव । एतत्प्रक्षेपश्च ' रक्षसि ह वा पुरोनुवाक इत्यनुवाकवर्तिनः । ' तानि रक्षसि मन्देहारुणे द्वीपे प्रक्षिपन्तीति वाक्यस्य मन्देहारुणान्नाक्षसान्तरुण्ये द्वीपे प्रक्षिपन्तीत्यर्थं मन्यमान कश्चित् । नान्तरुण-द्वीपप्रसङ्गः । अयं तत्त्वं च वाक्यस्य धृतिसविज्ञानभाष्येऽस्मदीये द्रष्टव्यम् । प्राचीनकोशेषु न दृश्यते ।

We find that the Taittirīya Āraṇyaka ( 2 2 ) has the following passage<sup>2</sup>

रक्षांसि ह वा पुरोनुवाके तपोग्रमनिष्ठन्तः । तान्प्रजापतिर्वरेणोपामन्त्रयत् तानि वरमवृणीतादित्यो नो योद्धा इति तान्प्रजापतिरब्रवीद्युधमिति तस्मादुत्तिष्ठन्तः ह वा तानि रक्षांस्यदित्युधयन्ति यावदस्तमन्वगात्तानि ह वा एतानि रक्षांसि गायत्रियाऽभिमन्त्रितान्ममसा शाम्यन्ति तद् ह वा एते ब्रह्मनादिनः पूर्वामिमुखास्तसन्ध्याया गायत्रियाऽभिमन्त्रिता आप ऊर्ध्वं विक्षिपन्ति ता एता आपो वज्रीभूत्वा तानि रक्षांसि मन्देहारुणे द्वीपे प्रक्षिपन्ति यत्प्रदक्षिणं प्रक्रमन्ति तेन पाप्मानमवधून्वन्त्युच्यन्तमस्तु यन्तमादित्यमभिधायन्कुर्वन्वाह्यगो विद्वान्सकल भद्रमश्नुतेऽमावादित्यो ब्रह्मेति ब्रह्म सन्महाप्येति य एव वेदः ॥

( प्रपा० २, अनु० २ )

<sup>1</sup> This seems to be more probable It seems that both the R and the Mbh had their own commentary-tradition

<sup>2</sup> Similar passages are found in Chāndogya-parīṣista, yājñavalkya, Āśvalāyana etc I am indebted to the General Editor for these references

It is, therefore, quite clear that Ck refers to this passage, which has the details of the fight also but the R has not drawn directly from this Āranyaka or from any other Vedic source for the following reasons —

- (1) The R is metrical, the Vy also is metrical
- (2) The R is definitely a reproduction of the Vy
- (3) The Āranyaka, as quoted above, refers to a Mandehadvīpa, but not to the Raksasas called Mandēha. The Vy and the Bd name the Rāksasas as Mandeha and so does the R

Thus it is clear that the R has drawn directly from the Vy, as it has done in the case of the Jnaka genealogy etc. Of course, this is the question of the indebtedness of the Purānas to the Brāhmanas and the Āranyakas i.e. to the Vedic literature in general, but we cannot go into that question here

(2) The Geographical Considerations

Having thus considered these Sargas from the textual view-point, I shall now consider them from the Geographical view point. I shall consider direction-wise. The Sarga 39 mentions the following names in the Eastern direction

Rivers Bhāgīrathī, Śarayū, Kauśikī, Kālindī, Yamunā, Sarasvatī, Sindhu, Śona, Mahī and Kālamāhī

Out of these Sarasvatī and Sindhu are to be dropped on textual grounds, as we have already seen.

Countries Brahma (Suhma), Māla, Videha, Mālava, Kāśī, Kosala, Magadha, Mahāgrāma, Pundra (reading doubtful), Vanga (doubtful)

City Kosakārānām Pattana

Mountains Yāmuna (mt. or forest), Mandara, Śīsira, Rśabha, Kanaka, Udaya

Seas Lohita, Kṣīroda, Jaloda (Ghrtoda)

Islands Yavadvīpa, Suvarṇadvīpa (?), Samudradvīpas, Sudarśana

Lake Sudarsana

Tribes Karnaprāvaraṇa, Oṣṭhakarnaka, Lohamukha, Javana, Akapadaka, Puruśādaka, Akṣaya, Balavantah (?), Kīrāta, Karnacūda, Hemānga, Āmamīnāsana, Antarjalacara, Naravyāghra, Mandeha, Vāikhānasa, Vālakhilya

Tree Kūtaśūlmali

Temple Vainateyagrha

Now it will be seen that all the rivers and all the countries mentioned, here, are seen in Mt 163rd, with difference in readings at one or two places. City of Kośakāras is also seen in Mt (and nowhere else). Out of the mountains, Mandara, Rśabha, and Udaya are found in Mt. The Lohita sea is in Mt. The position of Yavadvīpa and Suvarṇadvīpa has been already explained by me. Samudradvīpas and Sudarsanadvīpa are not found in the Purānas. The remaining names are not found in Mt.

A reference to Purāna Index, shows that out of the names which are not found in Mt 163, the following are found in one or the other Purāna

Kanaka (Vv)

Kṣīroda (Vv, Mt, Bd)

Shrtoda (Bd) Jaloda not found

Karnaprāvaraṇa and Oṣṭhakarnaka (Bd)

<sup>1</sup> Bg — Bhāgavata Purāna <sup>2</sup> Vn — Viṣṇu Purāna

Other names are not traceable at present

Now we take up the Southern direction (40th Sarga). Following names occur.

Rivers Narmadā, Godāvarī, Krsnavenī, Varadā, Kāverī

Countries Mekhala, Utkala, Dasārṇa, Avantī, Abhravanti, Vīdarbha, Rṣika, Māhṛṣika, Vanga, Kalinga, Kośika, Āndhra, Pundra, Cola, Pāndya, Kerala, Pāndyānām Kavāta.

City Bhogavati, Yamasya rājadhānī

Mountains Vindhya, Ayomukha, Malaya, Mahendra, Puspitaka, Sūryavān, Vaidyuta, Kuñjara, Rsabha

Temple Agastyabhavana

Tribes Rohita gāndhārvas

Dvīpa Unnamed (Simhala ?) Śatayojana

Out of these Narmadā, Godāvarī, Krsnavenī (ā), Kāverī, Vanga, Kalinga, Āndhra, Pundra, Cola, Pāndya, Kerala, Ayomukha, malaya, Vaidyuta (Vidyutvan), Kuñjara, Agastyabhavana, Bhogavati, Rsabha are found in Mt 163

Out of the remaining, Varadā is seen in Vv (101 243), Āmrāparnī in Bd, Vy and Mt, Puspavān (not Puspitaka) in Bd, Vy and Vn and Sūryakāntā (not sūryavān) in Vy. All the countries are known

Now we take up the Western direction (41st Sarga). Following are the names that occur

Rivers No

Countries Surāstra, Bāhlika, Śūra, Ābhira, Avantī, Angalepā (?)

Cities Marīcīpattana, Jatipurā, Prāgyyotispura

Mountains Hema, Pāriyātra, Cakravān, Megha, Meru

Seas Pāścīma-Samudra and Sindhusāgarayoh sangama

Following are found in Mt 163 —

Surāstra, Bāhlika, Śūra, Ābhira, Hema, Pāriyātra, Cakravān, Megha, Meru, Prāgyyotispura

Out of the remaining Avantī, Pāścīma-Samudra, Sindhusāgarasangama are known. Marīcīpattana (see Critical Notes) and Jatipurā are not known

We shall, now, consider the Northern direction (42nd Sarga). Following names occur in the R —

Tribes Mleccha, Pulinda, Śūrasena, Prasthala, Bharata, Kuru, Madra, Kāmboja, Uttara Kuru, Yavana, Śaka, Ārattaka, Bāhlika, Rṣika, Paurava, Tankana, Cina, Paramacīna, Nihāra, Darada, Himavat

Mountains Kāla, Hemagarbha, Sudarśana, Kailāsa, Krauñca, Maināka, Soma

Temple Kuberabhavana

Lake Vaikhānasa

River Śailoda

Sea Uttara Samudra
and somāsrama

Out of these, only the following are found in Mt 163

Hemagarbha, Kailāsa, Krauñca, Vaikhānasa lake

Out of the remaining, most of the countries are seen in the Purāṇas, Śailoda (Mt, Vy), Kāla (Vy), Maināka (Bd and other Purāṇas) are also found. Others are not found

Thus, we find that most of the geographical details of these Sargas are taken from Mt, 163 and some are taken from other Purāṇas. Here, I want to point out that although these names are taken from Mt, they are distributed directionwise, though no directions are mentioned in Mt. For example, Mt has given a list of the rivers all together, but in the R, most of the rivers are put in the East and the Godāvarī, the Kṛṣṇavānī and the Kāverī in the South. Same is the case with the countries and mountains. Is there a plan in distributing directionwise the placenames found in Mt? In other words, has the author of these Sargas of the R kept any central point in view, with reference to which he has distributed these names?

In this connection, the commentator Govindarāja says

अत्रेदमवधेयम् — शरावती नाम काचिन्नदी हिमवद्विन्ध्यमभ्यदेशे बलयाकारेण प्रवहति । तदपेक्षया प्राचीदिग्दिशानीं विचेष्यन्ने नोच्यते, न तु किङ्किन्धापेक्षया नापि सर्वपेक्षया ।

The commentary Tilaka says

हिमवद्विन्ध्यमभ्यवर्त्यार्यावर्तापेक्षया प्राच्यादिविभागोऽत्र निवक्षित इत्याहुः ।

A river named Śarāvātī is found in Vy 108 78. It is not mentioned in other Purāṇas. Even in Vy, its circular character is not mentioned. We, therefore, do not know from where Govindarāja has taken his information about the circular flow of Śarāvātī. To the modern Geography also, not such circular stream is known. To be circular, as Govindarāja says, it should start from the Himālyas, should reach the Vindhya and should, then, go back to Madhyadeśa. No such river is known to day. Thus we are not in a position to verify this statement of Govindarāja.

The statement of Nāgeśa in his commentary Tilaka seems to be more to the point particularly when we see the names put in the Eastern direction. But there is some difficulty in accepting it. If the centre is Āryāvarta, Śūrasena will be to its South and not to its North as it is put in the text. Avantī, Surāstra etc. will not be to its West.

If we examine the question independently, we find the position to be as under. Out of the Eastern places mentioned in the text, the Westernmost point is the river Śona or the Yamunā. Out of the Southern places, the Northernmost is the Vindhya mountain. Out of the Western places, the Easternmost point is Avantī. And out of the Northern places, the Southernmost point is the Śūrasena country. Thus the central point of this geography seems to be bounded by the Śona or the Yamunā on the East, by Avantī on the West, by Śūrasena on the North and by the Vindhya on the South. And it is natural that Sugrīva should describe from the point of view of Rṣyamūka where they were sitting, rather than from the point of view of an imaginary river like Śarāvātī or of Āryāvarta.

But the question requires some more consideration. We have seen that most of these details have been taken from Mt. And we find that some one, who added these names to the original text of the R, has distributed them in different directions. Did he know the exact point where Rṣyamūka and Kiśkindhā were situated? And because he knew this point, has he distributed the places with reference to it? Or, had he the conventional idea of the geography as it is given in the Bhuvanavinyāsa chapters of the Purāṇas and has distributed these names accordingly?

We have hardly any convincing answer to these questions. Only the considerations made above point to the centre of these geographical details somewhere between the Śūrasena country, the Vindhya mountain, the Avantī country and the Śona river.

But we may not pursue the question further. It is certain that these details have been added later. Therefore, the more interesting question is what was the position of these Sargas in the original R-text.

Was it necessary for Sugrīva to give all these details? Was it necessary for Sugrīva to send four parties in four directions? I think this was not at all necessary. Sugrīva knew that Rāvana had carried away Sītā. He also knew that Rāvana went past Rṣyamūka and proceeded with Sītā in the Southern direction Sugrīva knew it, Hanumat knew it, and even Rāma and Lakṣmana knew it from Sugrīva. Under the circumstances, it is natural that Sugrīva should send only one party and that in the South. And I suggest that in the original R-text, there was mention of only one party. In the original text, it must have been mentioned that one party was sent in the South. That is why picked men like Angada, Hanumat and Jāmbuvat were sent in this party. That is why the signet-ring was given only to this party by Rāma. If, therefore, only one party was sent in the South, what should have been the textual position? It is quite evident that in this case, Sargas 39, 41 and 42 must have been absent in the original text and even the 40th Sarga could not have been what it is to-day. And I should say that there are indications of this, traceable in this Sarga even now.

We find that in the 40th Sarga, st. No. 8 mentions the Vindhya and the Narmadā. St. No. 9 mentions Godāvarī, Kṛsnavenī and Varadā. St. Nos. 10-11 mention certain countries. Then in the 12th st. once again, Godāvarī is mentioned. And there are mentioned Āndhra and other Southern countries and the Kāverī (15). Now, this second mention of the Godāvarī, is to my mind, an indication of addition.

There is another indication also. St. 21-23 describe the mountain Mahendra and then the st. 24-26 are as under

द्वीपस्तस्यापरे पारे शतयोजनमायत ।
 अगम्यो मानुषैर्दीप्तस्त मार्गध्व समन्तत ।
 तत्र सर्वात्मना सीता मार्गितन्या विशेषत ॥ २४
 स हि देशस्तु वध्यस्य रावणस्य दुरात्मन ।
 राक्षसाधिपतेर्वास सहस्राक्षसमयुते ॥ २५
 दक्षिणस्य समुद्रस्य मध्ये तस्य तु राक्षसी ।
 अङ्गारकेति विख्याता छायासाक्षिण्य भोजनी ॥ २६

Here is described the Mahendra mountain and a dvīpa (Śatayojana) on the other side of it. The 26th st. mentions the South Sea and the Angārakā Rāksasī. The 25th st. says that that is the place, i.e. that dvīpa is the place of Rāvana and 'he' in the 25th st. shows that the author was sure about it. If he were sure about these details, only one party would have been sent in the south.

I would, therefore, say that the original R-text had st. Nos. 1-8 of this Sarga and might have had st. Nos. 9 to 11 and 21 to 26. The remaining stanzas are additions. Sarga 39, 41 and 42 were absent in the original text. And, after st. 1 to 8 of Sarga 40, details, now found in Sarga 43 (i.e. the details about the special instructions and the ring given to Hanumat) were continued.

But, then, it may be asked if these geographical details of these four Sargas are later additions, how can we say that the geographical details of Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā to Lankā were not added later on? The answer is clear. They were not added later on. These details are not found elsewhere as the details of these four Sargas are found. These details are necessary and form an integral part of the original Rāma-story. And above all, these details lead us to such identifications (e.g., Pañcavati, Janasthāna, Rṣyamūka etc., being on the North of the Vindhya and the Narmadā) as would never be thought of in an age when Ceylon was taken to be Lankā.

Before closing this subject, I want to say that the R has certain matter which is drawn from sources other than Vy, Bd, Mt, Bg and Vn. I shall give some examples, where it seems that the R has drawn from sources which I have not been able to locate.

The R (39.24) says that Karnaprāvarana and other tribes live on the peaks of Mandara. This detail is not found in any of the above five Purāṇas.

Similarly, out of the names of the tribes mentioned in 39.25-27, only two or three are traceable, while all the other names remain to be traced.

So also the following details seem to be taken by the R from some sources which are not traceable to-day.

(1) In Samudradvīpas, the Asuras catch shadows (39 31-2) (2) Vadavāmukha in Jaloda Sea (39 42-44) (3) Temple and flag of Ananta or the Kanaka mountain (39 45-47) (4) Sarmanasa peak of the Udaya mountain and the detail that Sun putting its first step on the Udaya and the second on Meru (39 51-3) (5) The detail that the mountain Mahendra was established by Agastya and that Sahastrākṣa goes there on holidays (40 20-23) (6) The detail that there is the Sun on one peak of the Puspitaka mountain, and the Moon on its other peak (40 29) (7) The boon given to Meru by the Āditya (41 32) (8) Location of Maya-mandira on the Mamāka mountain and the detail about the elephant of Kubera (42 29-31). (9) Roluta Gandharvas and their five lords (40 40-41) (10) The detail that Purusottama obtained Śaṅkha and Cakra after killing Pāñcājina and Hayagrīva on the Cakravat mountain (41 21-22)

The Route of Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā to Lankā

Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā to Lankā, as it is given in the R, can be conveniently divided into these four stages

(1) Ayodhyā to Citrakūta, (2) Citrakūta to Pañcavati, (3) Pañcavati to Rśyamūka and (4) Rśyamūka to Lankā

We shall try, here, to trace the route of Rāma's journey in all these four stages

1. Ayodhyā to Citrakūta

In the R, the route from Ayodhyā to Citrakūta is described twice—once while giving Rāma's journey and then while giving Bharata's journey. We shall see both these journeys

(1) (Rāma's journey)

Rāma started from Ayodhyā in a horse-drawn chariot, followed by the people of Ayodhyā. At night (the first), they reached the banks of the river Tamasā

ततस्तु तमसातीरं रम्यमाश्रित्य राघव ।
सीतामुद्रीक्ष्य सोमित्रिमित्रं वचनमब्रवीत् ॥ 2 41 1
इयमद्य निशा पूर्वा<sup>1</sup> सोमित्रे प्रस्थिता वनम् ।
वनवासस्य भद्रं ते स नोऽङ्गिष्ठितुमर्हसि ॥ 2

This was their first night outside Ayodhyā and many people from Ayodhyā accompanied Rāma up to this place. So, Rāma awakened his charioteer at midnight and said to him "Let us first go towards the North and then to the South in a chariot, so that in the morning, people will feel that we have gone back to Ayodhyā" (2 41 24)

Thus they sat in the chariot and crossed the rivers Tamasā (2 41 27), Vedasrutī (43 8), Gomati (43 10) and Syandilā<sup>2</sup>. Then, having passed out of the Kosala country (44 1), they reached Śrngaverapura (44 1). There they saw the Gangā. Here they passed the night (2nd)

Next day, they crossed the Gangā by boat and sent back the chariot. Up to this point, i.e. up to Śrngaverapura on the Gangā their journey was by horse-drawn chariot and thenceforward, on foot.

After crossing the Gangā, they came to a tree (Banyan) and passed the night there (their third night outside Ayodhyā and first night outside their kingdom)

अथैव प्रथमा रात्रिर्याता जनपदादहं ॥ 2 47 2

In the morning, they started for the confluence of the Gangā and the Yamunā and reached there in the evening

At this place called Prayāga, they stayed at the Āśrama of the sage Bharadvāja who invited them to stay on in his Āśrama, but Rāma said, "As Ayodhyā is near, people will go on coming here Hence, show me some other place where I can stay undisturbed" Then Bharadvāja said,

दशक्रोश<sup>1</sup> इतस्तात गिरिर्यस्मिन्नित्स्यसि ।

गोलाङ्गलानुचरितो वानरक्षनिपेवित ।
चित्रकूट इति ख्यातो गन्धमादनमनिभ ॥ 26

They stayed at Prayāga for the night (4th) and in the morning Bharadvāja showed them the way to Citrakūta .

अथासाद्य तु कालिन्दीं शीघ्रस्रोतसमापगाम्<sup>2</sup> ।

And then from there

Then bidding farewell to Bharadvāja and the Gangā,

They made a raft ( काष्ठसघाट ) here and then

Thus, after crossing the Yamunā, they came to this Śyāma Nyagrodha mentioned by Bharadvāja Then

श्रोशमात्र<sup>3</sup> ततो गत्वा भ्रातरौ रामलक्ष्मणौ ।

Thus they stayed at the Bunyan and passed the night (5th) there

The Route of Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā to Lankā

Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā to Lankā, as it is given in the R, can be conveniently divided into these four stages

(1) Ayodhyā to Citrakūta, (2) Citrakūta to Pañcavati, (3) Pañcavati to Rśyamūka and (4) Rśyamūka to Lankā

We shall try, here, to trace the route of Rāma's journey in all these four stages

1 Ayodhyā to Citrakūta

In the R, the route from Ayodhyā to Citrakūta is described twice—once while giving Rāma's journey and then while giving Bharata's journey We shall see both these journeys

(1) (Rāma's journey)

Rāma started from Ayodhyā in a horse-drawn chariot, followed by the people of Ayodhyā At night (the first), they reached the banks of the river Tamasā

ततस्तु तमसातीर रम्यमाश्रित्य राघव ।

इयमद्य निशा पूर्वा<sup>1</sup> सामित्रे प्रस्थिता वनम् ।
वनवासस्य भद्रं ते स नोऽक्लिप्तुमर्हसि ॥ 2

This was their first night outside Ayodhyā and many people from Ayodhyā accompanied Rāma up to this place So, Rāma awakened his charioteer at midnight and said to him "Let us first go towards the North and then to the South in a chariot, so that in the morning, people will feel that we have gone back to Ayodhyā" (2 41 24)

Thus they sat in the chariot and crossed the rivers Tamasā (2 41 27), Vedasrutī (43.8), Gomatī (43 10) and Syandikā<sup>2</sup> Then, having passed out of the Kosala country (44 1), they reached Śrngaverapurī (44 1). There they saw the Gangā Here they passed the night (2nd)

Next day, they crossed the Gangā by boat and sent back the chariot Up to this point, i.e. up to Śrngaverapura on the Gangā their journey was by horse-drawn chariot and thenceforward, on foot.

After crossing the Gangā, they came to a tree (Banyan) and passed the night there (their third night outside Ayodhyā and first night outside their kingdom)

अथेयं प्रथमा रात्रिर्यत्ता जनपदाद्वहि ॥ 2 47 2

In the morning, they started for the confluence of the Gangā and the Yamunā and reached there in the evening

At this place called Prayāga, they stayed at the Āśrama of the sage Bharadvāja who invited them to stay on in his Āśrama, but Rāma said, "As Ayodhyā is near, people will go on coming here Hence, show me some other place where I can stay undisturbed" Then Bharadvāja said,

दशक्रोश<sup>1</sup> इतस्तात गिरिर्यम्भिन्नवत्स्यसि ।

गोलाङ्गलानुचरितो वानरक्षनिपेवित ।
चित्रकूट इति ख्यातो गन्धमादनमनिभ ॥ 26

They stayed at Prayāga for the night (4th) and in the morning Bharadvāja showed them the way to Citrakūṭa

अथासाद्य तु कालिन्दीं शीघ्रस्रोतसमापगाम्<sup>2</sup> ।
तत्र यूयं प्लव कृत्वा तरताशुमतीं नदीम् ॥ 2 49 3

And then from there

Then bidding farewell to Bharadvāja and the Gangā,

सीतामेवाग्रतः कृत्वा कालिन्दीं जगमनुर्नदीम् । 2 49 8

They made a raft (काष्ठसघाट) here and then

ततः प्लवेनाशुमतीं शीघ्रगामृर्मिमालिनीम् ।

Thus, after crossing the Yamunā, they came to this Śyāma Nyagrodha mentioned by Bharadvāja Then

क्रोशमात्र<sup>3</sup> ततो गत्वा आतरौ रामलक्ष्मणौ ।
बहन्मेध्यान्मृगान्हत्वा चेतुर्यमुनावने ॥ 49 14

Thus they stayed at the Bunyan and passed the night (5th) there

Thus they reached Citrakūṭa where they made an Āśrama and stayed (50 14)

(11) (Bharata's journey)

Bharata, having started from Ayodhyā, with a large army, reached the Gangā (77 23) and stayed there for the night Then

Thus Bharata went to the South and to the left with his army and ultimately reached Citrakūta. We shall, now, analyse these two journeys

( i ) After leaving Ayodhyā, they crossed the rivers Tamasā, Vedaśrutī, Gomatī and Syandikā

( ii ) Then they reached Śrngaverapura<sup>1</sup> on the Gangā. Up to this point their journey was by a horse-drawn chariot

( iii ) Then they crossed the Gangā by boat. Thenceforward they went on foot

( iv ) After crossing the Gangā, they passed one night on the way and reached Prayāga next day evening<sup>2</sup> (47 2-6)

( v ) The distance from Prayāga to Citrakūta is given as ten krośas (48 25). Variant reading has three yojanas for ten krośas. In Bharata's journey, the same distance is given as 3½ yojanas (86 10). This means that ten krośas were equal to about three yojanas, and one krośa equal to about 1/3 yojana

( vi ) After leaving Prayāga, they crossed the river Yamunā and came to a Śyāma Nyagrodha where they passed the night (49 12)

( vii ) One krośa from the Nyagrodha was Yamunāvana (49 14)

( viii ) From Yamunāvana they went straight to Citrakūta and reached there the same day (50 11)

( ix ) To the North side (उत्तर पार्श्व) of Citrakūta, there was a river named Mandākinī (86 11). Even to-day, a river called Mandākinī exists at Citrakūta

Time-analysis

1st night on the Tamasā,

2nd night at Śrngaverapura,

3rd night between Gangā and Prayāga,

4th night at Prayāga,

5th night at Yamunāvana, one krośa from the Śyāma Nyagrodha

6th night at Citrakūta

Journey from Prayāga to Citrakūta involved only one night's stay on the way, i.e. they took two days and one night in going from Prayāga to Citrakūta

<sup>2</sup> In 2,84,1 कशाद् does not refer to the distance between Śrngaverapura and Prayāga. It only means that Bharata saw Prayāga when they were at a distance of a krośa from it

2 Citrakūta to Pañcavati

After Bharata left, one of the ṛsis in Citrakūta harassed by Rākṣasas came and told Rāma " A Rākṣasa named Khara, the younger brother of Rāvana ( रावणावरज ), has started harassing us all, from the time you have come here " ( 2 108 11-13 ) Therefore these ṛsis decided to leave Citrakūta The sage said

बहुमूलफल चित्रमविदूरादितो वनम् ।
पुराणाश्रममेवाह श्रियिष्ये सगण पुन ॥ 2 108 20

Thus the ṛsis left Citrakūta and went to a forest which was nearby When Rāma did not like to stay there

न तत्रारोचयद् वास कारणेर्बहुभिस्तदा ॥ 2 109 1
तस्मादन्यत्र गच्छाम इति सचिन्त्य राघव ।
प्रातिष्ठत स वैदेह्या लक्ष्मणेन च सगत ॥ 4
सोऽत्रेराश्रममासाद्य त वचन्दे महायशा । 5<sup>ab</sup>

Thus Rāma left Citrakūta and soon came to the āśrama of the sage Atri They stayed for the night

ततस्ता शर्षरीं प्रीत पुण्या शशिनिभानन ।
अर्चितस्तापसै सिद्धैरुत्रास रघुनन्दन ॥ 2 111 16
तस्या रान्या व्यतीतायामभिपिच्य हुताग्निमान् ।
आवृच्छेता नरन्याग्रौ तापसान्वनगोचरान् ॥ 17

Thus they left Atri's āśrama next day and the sages showed him the way to the forest

एष पन्था महर्षीणा फलान्याहरता वने ।
अनेन तु वनं दुर्गं गन्तु राघव ते क्षमम् ॥ 19
इतीव ते प्राञ्जलिभिस्तपस्त्रिभि
द्विजै कृतस्वस्त्ययन परतप ।
वन सभार्य प्रविशेश राघव
सलक्ष्मण सूर्य इवाश्रमण्डलम् ॥ 20

Thus addressed by the sages, Rāma left Atri's āśrama and entered that forest This was the Daṇḍakāraṇya as is proved by the following first st of the Aranyakāṇḍa ( The above two st are the last two st of Ayodhyākāṇḍa )

प्रविश्य तु महारण्यं तण्डकारण्यमाभवान् ।
ददर्श रामो दुर्धर्षस्तापसाश्रममण्डलम् ॥ 3 1 1

Thus he entered Dandakāraṇya and the ṛsis welcomed him as a king and provided him with a cottage

Next day, Rāma went further in the forest.

कृतातिथ्योऽथ रामस्तु सूर्यस्योदयन प्रति ।
शामन्य स मुनीन् सर्वान् वनमेवान्वगाहत ॥ 3 2 1

Going a little further, he saw a Rākṣasa-like person named Virāḍha who said that he was the son of Jaya and his mother was Satahrādā ( 3 3 5 ) Then, when Rāma struck him with an arrow, he said he was a Gandharva named Tumburu cursed by Kubera ( 3 3 18 ) Then Virāḍha told Rāma

इतो वसति धर्मात्मा शरभङ्ग प्रतापवान् ।
अध्यर्धयोजने<sup>2</sup> तात महर्षि सूर्यनभि ॥ 3 3 22

He said that a sage named Śarabhaṅga lived only 1½ yojana from there and that they should go to him

<sup>2</sup> No v 1 for अध्यर्धयोजने

They went to Śarabhaṅga who, later, told them to go to the sage Sutiḥṣṇa

सुतीक्ष्णमभिगच्छ त्व शुचा देशे तपस्विनम् ।
रमणीये ऋणेदेशे स ते वाम त्रिधास्यति<sup>1</sup> ॥ 3 1 30

After saying this, Śarabhaṅga cut off his limbs and sacrificed them in the fire, one by one. After the death of Śarabhaṅga, several sages came to Rāma and said that they were harassed by Rikṣas. They said

गृहि पश्य शरीराणि मुनीना भाविनात्मनाम् ।
हताना राक्षसेर्घोरैर्वह्ना बहूधा ऋने ॥ 3 5.15
पम्पानदीनिवासानामनुमन्ता<sup>2</sup> किनीमपि ।
चित्रकूटालयाना च क्रियते कदन महत् ॥ 16

They showed Rāma heaps of bones of the sages who were living on the Citrakūṭa and on the banks of the rivers Mandākinī and Pampā. The sages requested him to stay in the forest and protect them.

Then Rāma went to the sage Sutiḥṣṇa

स गत्वा दूरमध्वान<sup>3</sup> नदीस्तीर्त्वा बहूदका ।
ददर्श त्रिपुल गेल महामेघमिरोन्नतम् ॥ 3 6 2

After leaving Śarabhaṅga's āśrama, they saw a mountain and entered the forest surrounding it and reached Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama in that forest, and Rāma stayed there (3 6 5)

Next morning, Rāma requested the sage to permit him to go, as he wanted to go round the several āśramas in the Dandaka forest and protect the sages. Then they started (3 7.19). They went into the forest and saw a lake called Pañcāpsara (3 10 5). This lake was constructed by the sage Māṇḍakarni

And thus they lived in different āśramas in the Dandaka and at the end of ten years came back to Sutiḥṣṇa

कचित्परिदशान्मासानेक सवत्सर कचित् ।
कचिच्च चतुरो मासान्पञ्च पद् चापरान्कचिन् ॥ 3 10 23

परिस्त्य च धर्मज्ञो राघव मह सीतया ।
सुतीक्ष्णस्याश्रम श्रीमान्पुनरेवाजगाम ह ॥ 26

Thus at the end of ten years, he once again came to Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama. He stayed there for some time and then asked him the way to Agastya's āśrama. He said,

अस्मिन्नरण्ये भगवन्नगस्त्यो मुनिमत्तम ।
वसतीति मया नित्य कथा कथयता श्रुतम् ॥ 3 10 29

Then Sutiḥṣṇa told him the way to Agastya's āśrama

Then they went further and at the end of the day (3 to 45) they reached the āśrama of Agastya's brother. They stayed there for one night and next day reached Agastya's āśrama. Rāma stayed there and Agastya gave him an arrow and a bow and a quiver. Then Rāma asked him as to a convenient place where they can stay. Then Agastya said,

इतो द्वियोजने तात बहुमूलफलोदक ।

Then, taking leave of Agastya, they started for Pañjavatī. On the way, they met Jatāyu, who promised them his help and co-operation.

Thereafter, they reached Pañjavatī and constructed a cottage and stayed there.

We shall, now, analyse Rāma's route from Citrakūta to Pañjavatī. The points to be noted are these:

(1) Soon after leaving Citrakūta, they reached Atri's āśrama. They passed no night on the way, which means that it was not far off. And Mr Iyer (RL p 101) has shown that there is a hill called Anasūyā Hill, 9 miles to the south of Citrakūta. This is shown in the one mile to inch topo sheet 63 C/16 of the Survey of India Map. Anasūyā is Atri's wife.

(2) Soon after leaving Atri's āśrama, they entered Dandakāranya, which means that Atri lived just on the northern border of Dandakāranya.

(3) As they entered Dandakāranya, they were welcomed by the sages. They passed one night there.

(4) Next day, as they started and went a little further they came across Virādha. Mr Iyer has shown (RL p 102) that Topo Sheet 66 3/16 shows a Virādha-kunda, which is only 3 miles from Anasūyā Hill i.e. Atri's āśrama.

(5) Then they went to the sage Śarabhangā who, according to Virādha, lived at a distance of 1½ yojanas from where Virādha died. Mr Iyer has shown (RL p 102-3) that at a distance of 5½ miles from Virādha-kunda is the junction of a river called Śarabhangā with the river Paśūni.

Thus Atri āśrama, Virādha's place and Śarabhangā's place are located even to-day. This shows that Rāmāyana's details, so far, are reliable and creates a presumption that further details given in the Rāmāyana are likely to be reliable. We shall see these further details.

(6) From Śarabhangā's place, they went to Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama. What was the distance between these two places? St 272 says, स गत्वा दूरमध्वानम् which would mean that Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama was at a long distance from Śarabhangā's place. As against this, as we have noted, some commentators say that it is स गत्वा अदूरमध्वानम् and therefore according to them the distance was not much. But the mss evidence seems to be in favour of दृग्. Critical Edition has दृग्. Moreover st 372 says नदीस्तीर्त्वा बहुदूरा which means that they had to cross several rivers on the way. Thus we have two views—one saying that the distance between Śarabhaṅga's place and Sutiḥṣṇa's place was not long and another says it was long. If it was long, it was so in comparison with earlier distances (e.g. between Citrakūta and Atri, Atri and Virādha, Virādha and Sutiḥṣṇa). But it is clear that Sutiḥṣṇa lived in Dandakāranya. That is why Śarabhaṅga said to Kāma

इह राम महातेजा सुतीक्ष्णो नाम धार्मिक
वसत्यरण्ये

'iha aranye' means in the Dandakāranya

Iver has taken 94 miles between Śarabhaṅga's place and Sutiḥṣṇa's place, but he has given no reasons for this and no identification for Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama. I am discussing this question a little further

(7) After living at various āśramas in the Dandakāranya, they came back, at the end of ten years, to Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama. And from this āśrama, they went to Pañcavati

(8) According to the specific instructions of Sutiḥṣṇa, the distance between Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama and the āśrama of Agastya-bhrātā was of four yojanas. In going to the āśrama of Agastya-bhrātā they did not pass any night on the way. From the āśrama of Agastya-bhrātā, the āśrama of Agastya was only one yojana. Thus, Agastya's āśrama was five yojanas away from the āśrama of Sutiḥṣṇa

(9) Agastyabhrātā's āśrama was at a place which was sthalaprāya i.e. a tableland and had a grove of Pippala trees in it

(10) And, as Agastya instructed, Pañcavati was only two yojanas from his own āśrama. In between was Jatāyu's place. Thus Pañcavati was seven yojanas away from Sutiḥṣṇa's āśrama

(11) Thus the distance between Citrakūta and Pañcavati was

|                                |               |

Note One

I made certain enquiries about the location of the āśramas of Śarabhaṅga, Sutiḥṣṇa and Agastya. I quote below from some of the letters received by me

Shri Sharadaprasadji (P. O. Ramavana, via Satna, Madhya Pradesh) writes in his letter, dated 5.9.1963

अत्रि आश्रम चित्रकूटके समीप ही है। सतना से चित्रकूट जानेवाली बस की लाइन से प्रायः 3 मील हट कर पड़ता है। इसी लाइन से शरमद्ध आश्रम भी पहुँच सकता है। त्रिरावकुण्ड टिकुरिया रेलवे स्टेशन के समीप है। सुतीक्ष्ण आश्रम सतना जिले में नहीं है, पन्ना जिले में है। आजकल मार्ग नाम से प्रसिद्ध है। अगस्त्य आश्रम भी पन्ना जिले में ही है। लखुरावाग नाम से अब प्रसिद्ध है।

In another letter, dated 29.9.63, he says

पन्ना जिला सतना जिला से रंगा हुआ है। म. सुतीक्ष्ण आश्रम गया है और अगस्त्य आश्रम भी गया है। पर दोनों में अन्तर कितना है यह मैं जान नहीं सका। एक से दूसरे में सीधी सड़क नहीं है। मिन मार्गों से जाना होता है। सतना से पन्ना 88 मील है। यहाँ से सुतीक्ष्ण-आश्रम 11 मील है। पन्ना मार्ग में ही सतना से दौनन्दनगर 20 मील है। वहीं में महेन्द्रा 20 मील। इसके समीप लखुरावाग है जो अगस्त्य आश्रम माना जाता है। रंगी जाती है।

In a letter No. Acd/B/S/3933 dated 21st Sept 1963, the Director of Public Instruction, Bhopal (M.P.) says

“ In Satna district, there is a place known as Sutikṣṇa-Ashram at village Voda, at a distance of four miles from village Birsinghpur, which is at a distance of nine miles from Jaitwara railway station, on Manikpur Satna Railway route. There is another place known as Sarabhang-ashram at a distance of 3 miles only in north-easterly direction from Sutikṣhāna-ashram Sutikṣhāna-ashram is surrounded by water on three sides, water coming out throughout the year from a fountain from the ground and surrounding the place on three sides, collects in a reservoir (कुण्ड) on the bank of which there is a very old kahua tree (कहुआ वृक्ष). The place has natural beauty and enchanting surroundings and looks like a तपोभूमि ”

Note Two .

Mandākinī and Godāvarī

It will be seen that a river named Mandākinī is shown ( 2 86 10 ) at Citrakūṭa

There is a st ( 3 4 76* ) omitted in the Critical Edition, in which Śarabhaṅga asks Rāma to go to Sutikṣṇa's place following the opposite course of Mandākinī—

इमा मन्दाकिनीं राम प्रतिस्रोतमनुव्रज

We must note here that the rivers in these parts flow from the South to the North

In this connection Govindarāja says मन्दाकिनीशब्द पुण्यनदीमात्रे मुनिभिर्हपचर्यते. But it seems that there was a river named Mandākinī south of Citrakūṭa. This question is connected with the name Godāvarī. It is very widely known that Pañcavati was near Godāvarī. I have, therefore, examined all the places where the word Godāvarī occurs in the Aranyakāṇḍa. It occurs at the following places

- ( 1 ) 3 12 18 गोदावरी occurs in 18<sup>c</sup> N<sub>1</sub> omits 18, G<sub>2</sub> omits 18<sup>c</sup>-19, D<sub>4</sub> omits 18<sup>c</sup><sup>d</sup>

But here Ś<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub>-3 read मन्दाकिनी for गोदावरी

- ( 10 ) 3 60 14 गोदावरी occurs in 14<sup>a</sup> Ś<sub>1</sub> Dg<sub>1</sub> Dt<sub>1</sub> Dm<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub>-4 6 8 S Cr m k t read मन्दाकिनी for गोदावरी

Out of 11 cases, only two show no v.1 for Godāvarī. I think that the case is very strong to say that at all these places Godāvarī has been put by some late hand

3 ( Pañcavati to Rśyamāki )

When Rāvana carried away Sītā, Rāma was very much upset, but ultimately he and Lakṣmaṇa started in search of her. But before we trace Rāma's route, I shall put down below the path by which Rāvana carried away Sītā to Lankā

From Pañcavati, Rāvana went in the direction where Jatāyu was staying. Having killed Jatāyu he went further and

ददर्श गिरिशृङ्गस्थान् पञ्च वानरपुंगवान् । 3 52 1

saw five Vānaras on the mountain Then

स च पम्पामतिक्रम्य लङ्कामभिमुखं पुगीम् । 52 5

he crossed the Pampā and went towards Lankā Then

स क्षिप्रं समतीयाय शरश्चापादिव च्युत ।

निमिनःकनिकेत तु वरुणालयमक्षयम् । 52 7-8

he crossed the sea and प्रविशेत्तु पुरीं लङ्का । 52 11 entered Lankā

This is, in brief, the route by which Rāvana carried away Sītā

Now, we shall trace Rāma's route to Rsyamūka

Having returned to Pañcavati after killing Mārīca, Rāma asked Lakṣmana to go to Godāvarī to find out Sītā, but she was not there

Then Rāma said,

गोदावरीं जनस्थानमिमं प्रस्रवणं गिरिम् । 3 60 14

Then they moved in Janasthāna and came to Jatāyu Having cremated Jaṭāyu

कृत्वैवमुदकं तस्मै प्रस्थितौ राघवौ तदा ।

अवेक्षन्तौ वने सीता पश्चिमा जग्मतुर्दिशम् ॥ 3 65 1

ततः परं जनस्थानात् त्रिकोशं गम्य राघवौ ।

क्रौञ्चारण्यं विविशतुर्गहनं तौ महोजसौ ॥ 5

they went to the West and then to the South passed out of that ( Daṇḍakāraṇya ) forest Then three krośas away from Janasthāna, they entered Krauñcāranya

As they went into that forest, they came to Kabandha whom they killed Kabandha told them

श्रूयतां राम वक्ष्यामि सुग्रीवो नाम वानरः ।

that Sugrīva lived on Rsyamūka by the lake Pampā And he further said

एष राम शिवं पन्थां यत्रैते पुष्पिता द्रुमाः ।

Thus Kabandha showed them the way to Matangavana, Pampā and Rsyamūka

Then they started on the route shown by Kabandha

वातस्थतुदिशं गृह्य प्रतीचीं नृवरात्मजौ । 3 70 1
 कृत्वा च शैलपृष्ठे तु तौ वास रघुनन्दनौ ।

 तौ पुष्करिण्या पम्पायास्तीरमासाद्य पश्चिमम् ।
 अपश्यता ततस्तत्र शवर्या रम्यमाश्रमम् ॥ 4

Having gone to the West, they lived (i.e. passed night) on the mountain and then reached the Western bank of Pampā and there they saw Śabarī's āsrama

Then from Śabarī's āsrama, they crossed Pampā and Rśyamūka

अस्यास्तीरे तु पूर्वोक्त पर्वतो धातुमण्डित ।
 ऋश्यमूक इति ख्यात .. ॥ 3 71.23

We shall, now, analyse this route from Pañcavatī to Rśyamūka

- I Rāvana went from Pañcavatī to the place of Jatāyu and thence to Pampā and Rśyamūka where he saw the Vānaras Thence he went to the sea and thence to Lankā
- II (1) Rāma and Lakṣmana first went from Pañcavatī to Jatāyu's place
 (2) From there, they went Westwards (3 69 1)
 (3) Later they took to the Southern direction (3 69 4) So far they were in Janasthāna
 (4) Then after going 3 krośas from Janasthāna they reached Krauñcāranya
 (5) Then going further they met Kabandha
 (6) Kabandha showed them the path to Rśyamūka thus going in the western direction, after a long way, they would reach Pampā On the western bank of Pampā there was Śabarī's āsrama and Matangāśrama And from there, after crossing Pampā, they would reach Rśyamūka (3 73 2-41)
 (7) That Śabarī's āsrama was to be on the western bank of Pampā is also known from 3 74 3-4
 (8) Having crossed Pampā, they reached Rśyamūka which, therefore, was to the east of Pampā

Thus Pañcavatī—Janasthāna—Krauñcāranya (3 krośas from Janasthāna)—Matangavana and Matangāśrama—Śabarī's āsrama—Pampā—Rśyamūka

Rśyamūka to Lankā

When Sugrīva decided to send his Vānaras in search of Sītā, he gathered them all on the Rśyamūka mountain and asked them to go in various directions As we are concerned with the Southern direction, we shall take up that route

Sugrīva asked Angada, Hanumat and others to go to the South It is said

ये केचन समुद्देशास्तस्यां दिशि सुदुर्गमा ।
 कपीश कपिमुख्याना स तेषा समुदाहरत् ॥ 4 40 7
 सहस्रशिरस विन्ध्य नानाद्रुमलतावृतम् ।
 नर्मदा च नदीं दुर्गा महोरगनियेविताम् ॥ 8

(There is no v l for विन्ध्य or नर्मदा )

Sugrīva said that as they left Rśyamūka and went to the South, they would first come to the Vindhya and then to the river Narmadā

This is an extremely important statement. It means in unequivocal terms that Rśyamūka was to the North and not to the South of the Vindhyas and the Narmadā. It also means that Pampā<sup>1</sup>, Janasthāna, Pañcavaṭī, Agastya-āśrama and all other places visited by Rāma on the route were to the North and not to the South of the Narmadā. The above two stanzas are found in all the MSS of NR and SR, and thus are quite authentic for the purposes of the text of the Rāmāyana. As a matter of fact, Rśyamūka was a part of the Vindhyas and so were Malaya and Prasravana, for all these three, as has been already shown earlier, were in close vicinity of one another.

This shows that the Purāṇic tradition knew Kiskindhā to have been situated in the Vindhya regions. Having taken their orders from Sugrīva, Angada and the party started in the Southern direction.

स तु दूरमुपागम्य सर्वैस्तैः कपिसत्तमैः ।
विचिनोति स्म विन्ध्यस्य गुहाश्च गहनानि च ॥ 47 2
(No v1 for विन्ध्यस्य )

After leaving Rśyamūka, they entered the Vindhyas and searched for Sītā in the caves and forests of the Vindhya. While thus moving in the Vindhyas, they came to Kandu-vana and then they met an Asura whom they killed. They went on searching.

विन्ध्यकाननसकीर्णां विचेरुर्दक्षिणा दिशम् । 48 15
(G2 दिव्य- (for विन्ध्य-))
विन्ध्यमेवादितस्तावद्विचेरुस्ते समन्ततः । 48 22
(NW om No v1)

It was in the Vindhyas that they went on searching. The text is very clear at all these places about Vindhya. Then again it is said,

सह ताराङ्गदाभ्यां तु सगम्य हनुमान् कपिः ।
विचिनोति स्म विन्ध्यस्य गुहाश्च गहनानि च ॥ 49 1
(No v1 for विन्ध्यस्य )

Thus searching in the Vindhyas, they saw a cave (mahābila) which was watched by a Dānava.

क्षुत्पिपासापरीताश्च श्रान्ताश्च सलिलार्थिनः ।
अवकीर्णं लतावृक्षैर्दृष्टुस्ते महाबिलम् ॥ 49 7

They went inside the bila and met a woman named Svayamprabhā who offered them food and water and then led them out of the cave and put them at a place from where she said,<sup>2</sup>

एष विन्ध्यो गिरिः श्रीमान्नानाद्रुमलतायुतः ।
एष प्रस्रवणः शैलः सागरोऽयं महोदधिः ॥ 52 12

<sup>1</sup> That Pampā was in the Vindhyas is mentioned in Bāna's Kādambari. The parrot says that he was born near Pampā, which is in Vindhyātavī.

In a drama Kaumudīmahotsava, Kiskindhā is located in the Vindhya.

In the Purāṇic geography, Kiskindhā is put in the Vindhya region of मालवाश्च कल्पाश्च मेकलाश्चोत्कले सह । 50

उत्तमर्णा दशार्णाश्च भोजा किष्किन्धकैः सह ।
तोशला कोशलाश्चैव त्रेपुरा वेदिशास्तथा ॥ 51
तुम्बुरास्तुम्बुराश्चैव वहेला नैपथैः सह ।
अनूपारस्तुण्डकेराश्च वीतिरोत्रा ह्यवन्तयः ॥ 52
एते जनपदाः सर्वे विन्ध्यपृष्ठनिवासिनः ।

—Bhāratavarsa by Kirfel, p. 48.

They were on the Vindhya, so she said 'this is the Vindhya' and also pointed out two other places the Prasravana mountain and the vast ocean Both these were within seeing distance from the particular point of the Vindhya, where they were standing This is very important This means that, on the one hand Prasravana and therefore Malaya and Rsyamūka were quite near from the point of the Vindhya where they were standing, and on the other hand, there was an ocean very near from the same point This definitely shows that the sea was not far from this point of the Vindhya Then the narrative goes on

ततस्ते ददृशुर्घोरं सागर वरुणालयम् ।
अपारमभिगजन्त घोरैरुर्मिमिराकुलम् ॥ 4 52 14

This is the sea which Hanumat crossed and over which Rāma built a bridge It was just by the side of this Vindhya-point. Then it is said

मयस्य मायाविहित गिरिदुर्गं विचिन्वताम् ।
तेषा मासो व्यतिक्रान्तो यो राज्ञा समय कृतः ॥ 52 15
विन्ध्यस्य तु गिरे पादे संप्रपुष्पितपादपे ।
उपविश्य महात्मानश्चिन्तामापेदिरे तदा ॥ 16

( No v l for विन्ध्यस्य in st 16 )

They sat at the foot of the Vindhya and felt anxious about the limit of one month which had already passed They sat at the foot of the Vindhya. It is all Vindhya, they never left the Vindhya and they never crossed the Narmadā

I must, note, here that this Bila of which we have just talked is helpful to us It is said in the R ( 4, 50 ) that this bila and the forest surrounding it were made by Maya It is also said there that Maya obtained the wealth of Uśanā and then constructed this bila. It is further said that Maya lived in this bila with an Apsarā named Hemā It is said in the Uttarkānda that ( 7, 12 ) Maya had by Hemā, two sons named Māyāvin, and Dundubhi and a daughter named Mandodarī Mandodarī, as we know, was married to Rāvana Both Māyāvin and Dundubhi came in conflict with Vālin and were killed by him, as we find in the Kiskindhākānda It is said that when Vālin pursued Māyāvin the latter fled and took shelter in a bila It is, now, not difficult to see that Māyāvi had run away to his own abode i.e. this bila which was constructed by his father Therefore, this bila cannot be far away from Kiskindhā Māyāvin fled to this bila and Vālin followed him on foot The Rāmāyana locates this bila in the Vindhya ( 4 49 1-7 )

I must, here, declare that this is the same bila ( rksabila ) where Kṛṣṇa had gone in search of the Syamantaka jewel and where he had found Prasenaḥjit dead ( See Bd III 71 35 ff ) In this connection, it is said that Kṛṣṇa searched in the Vindhya and the Rksavanta mountains ( Bd III 71 39 ) and found Prasena dead near this bila Thus, it is clear that this bila was in the Vindhya

And it is also clear that, this bila could not have been far away from Kiskindhā as is pointed out above and could not have been far away from Lankā where Rāvana, the son-in-law of Maya, ruled

At this place Sampātī, the brother of Jātāyu, met them

उपविष्टास्तु ते सर्वे यस्मिन् प्राय गिरिस्थले ।
हरयो गृध्रराजश्च तं देवमुपचक्रमे ॥ 4 55 1
सपातिर्नाम नाम्ना तु चिरजीवी विहंगम ।
भ्राता जटायुष श्रीमान्प्रख्यातबलपौरुष ॥ 2
कन्दरादभिनिष्क्रम्य स विन्ध्यस्य महागिरे । 3<sup>ab</sup>

Sampātī was living in a cave of the Vindhya ( 57 7 ) where the Vānaras were sitting Once again it is Vindhya Then they talked with him about Rāma and Jātāyu and Sampātī told them where Sitā was

पुत्रो विश्रवस साक्षाद्भाता वैश्रवणस्य च ।
 अभ्यास्ते नगरी लङ्का रावणो नाम राक्षसः ॥ 4 57 19
 इतो द्वीपे समुद्रस्य सपूर्णं शतयोजने ।
 तस्मिँल्लङ्कापुरी रम्या निर्मिता विश्वकर्मणा ॥ 20
 लङ्कायामथ गुप्ताया सागरेण समन्ततः ॥ 22<sup>ad</sup>
 सप्राप्य सागरस्यान्त सपूर्णं शतयोजनम् ।
 आसाद्य दक्षिण कूलं ततो द्रक्ष्यथ रावणम् ॥ 23
 इहस्थोऽहं प्रपश्यामि रावणं जानकीं तथा ॥ 28<sup>ad</sup>

Thus Lankā was situated in a dvīpa of the sea which started from there (110) where they were sitting i.e. from the foot of that point of the Vindhya. Lankā was surrounded by sea on all sides. Sampātī said, "Even sitting here, I see Rāvana and Jānakī", this, he said, was because he had divine eyes. But one can take it to mean that Lankā was seen from the point of Vindhya where they were sitting.

Then Sampātī told them how he himself came to stay on the Vindhyas. He said that once he and his brother Jatāyu, challenging the light of the Sun, went up against him. But in protecting Jatāyu from the scorching heat of the Sun, his own wings also were burnt and he fell on this peak of the Vindhya (asya vindhyasya śikhare, 4 59 4). He said that he lost consciousness for six nights and when he came to himself he surveyed the surroundings and

दक्षिणस्योदधेस्तीरे विन्ध्योऽयमिति निश्चितः । 59 7

he knew that this was the Vindhya on the shore of the Southern sea

Now, this is very important. It is categorically said here that the Vindhya was on the shore of the Southern sea. This means that the Southern sea which Hanumat and Rāma crossed began almost from the foot of the Vindhyas

He said that he doubted that Jatāyu fell in Janasthāna and he himself fell on the Vindhya.

आशङ्के तं निपतितं जनस्थाने जटायुपम् ।
 अहं तु पतितो विन्ध्ये दग्धपक्षो जडीकृतः ॥ 4 60 15

Thus it is clear that, the Vānaras met Sampātī on a point of Vindhya from where the Southern sea was quite near. This is also supported by Svayamprabhā's words quoted earlier

एष विन्ध्यो गिरिः श्रीमान्नानाद्रुमलतायुतः ।
 एष प्रस्रवणं शैलं सागरोऽयं महोदधिः ॥ 52 12

Later, Sampātī told them that he was old, his son Supārśva brought food for him, and one day, while gathering food, he had seen Rāvana taking away Sītā

Supārśva said

अहं तात यथाकालमाभिपार्षीं समाश्रुतः ।
 महेंद्रस्य गिरेर्द्वारमावृत्य च समास्थितः ॥ 4 58 13
 तत्र सत्त्वसहस्राणां सागरान्तरचारिणाम् ।
 पन्थानमेकोऽध्यवसन् निरोद्धुमवाङ्मुखः ॥ 14
 तत्र कश्चिन्मया दृष्टः सूर्योदयसमप्रभाम् ।
 स्त्रियमादाय गच्छन्वं सिद्धाञ्जनचयोपमः ॥ 15
 सोऽहमभ्यवहारार्थं तौ दृष्ट्वा कृतनिश्चयः ।
 तेन साक्षा विनीतेन पन्थानमभियाचितः ॥ 16

Here it is said that Supārśva was sitting covering the Mahendra-dvāra, blocking the way of all animals moving in the Sāgara. He was sitting looking downwards. There came a black man carrying a resplendant woman and he requested him to allow him to pass through, which Supārśva did. Later, all the residents there said that it was Sītā who was fortunately still living

This description suggests a pass (dvāra) leading to Mahendra mountain, the pass was such that only one person could pass at a time, that is why Supārśva had to make way for Rāvana to pass. And the pass was such through which a river was passing on the bank of which Supārśva was sitting seeing downwards (avānmukha), probably fishing. And the pass led to the other side where there was an ocean.

Then the Vānaras went to the sea and after discussion it was decided that Hanumat should cross the ocean. Then Hanumat आरुरोह नगश्रेष्ठ महेन्द्रमरिमर्दन । (4 66 34) ascended the mountain Mahendra, from where he jumped into the sea.

Sampātī says that Lankā was situated in a dvīpa. We also got some more references to Lankā's situation in the Sundara, the Yuddha and the Uttara Kāndas of the Rāmāyana. I give these references below.

In Sundara Kānda, B (ed) 2 1, it is said

स सागरमनाष्टप्यमतिक्रम्य महाबल ।
त्रिकूटस्य तटे लङ्का स्थित स्वस्थो ददर्श ह ॥

Here Lankā is described as situated on the Trikūta

After Rāma had crossed the sea and encamped, he is described as going up the Suvēla mountain in the Yuddhakānda B (ed.) 37 36, 38 1, 39 1, 40, 1. And from Suvēla they saw Lankā (40.3)

In the Uttarakānda (B ed.), 5 22-25 is said

दक्षिणस्योदधेस्तीरे त्रिकूटो नाम पर्वतः ॥ 22
सुवेल इति चाप्यन्यो द्वितीयो राक्षसेश्वरा ।
शिखरे तस्य शैलस्य मध्यमेऽम्बुदसनिभे ॥ 23
शकुनेरपि दुष्प्रापे टकच्छिन्नचतुर्दिशि ।
त्रिशयोजनविस्तीर्णा शतयोजनमायता ॥ 24
स्वर्णप्राकारसमीता हेमतोरणसवृता ।
मया लङ्केति नगरी शक्याज्ञप्तेन निर्मिता ॥ 25

Thus considering what Sampātī said and what is said in these Kāndas, we can say that there was a Simhaladvīpa in which there were two hills called Suvēla and Trikūta and Lankā was situated on the middle peak of Trikūta.

In the Mbh Vanaparvan 282 56, Lankā is put in Trikūtagirikandare i.e. in the kandara (cave or valley?) of Trikūta, not on the top of Trikūta.

Topography suggested by this description is like this

1 There is a point of Vindhya (i) where they were sitting, (ii) where they were put by Svayamprabhā and (iii) where Sampātī met them

2 It is a point from where Prasavana mountain was near and the sea also was near

3 It is a point from where at a short distance was a place called Mahendra-dvāra. This was a pass through a mountain range. Through this pass, a river ran and the passage on the bank of the river was just enough for one person to pass at a time. The pass led to Mahendra on the other-side of which lay the sea.

4 It is a point from where, across the sea, at the other end, was seen an island (dvīpa). In that dvīpa there was a mountain named Suvēla and another named Trikūta. Lankā city was situated on the top of this Trikūta.

Lankā to Mārīca-āsrama

When Śūrpanakhā complained about the treatment given to her by Rāma and Lakṣmana, Rāvana thought of enlisting the help of Mārīca. So,

स्थिरबुद्धिस्ततो रम्या यानशाला जगाम ह ॥ 3 33 3
यानशाला ततो गत्वा प्रच्छन्न राक्षसाधिप ॥
सूत सचोदयामास रथ सयुज्यतामिति ॥ 4
एवमुक्त क्षणेनैव सारथिल्लघुविक्रम ।
रथ सयोजयामास तस्याभिमतमुत्तमम् ॥ 5
काञ्चन रथमास्थाय कामगं रत्नभूषितम् ।
पिशाचवदनैर्युक्त खरैः कनकभूषणैः ॥ 6
सेघप्रतिमनादेन स तेन धनदानुज ।
राक्षसाधिपति श्रीमान्ययौ नदनदीपतिम् ॥ 7

In order to go to Mārīca's place, Rāvana ordered out a chariot This chariot<sup>1</sup> was drawn by asses ( khaṭa ) Sitting in this chariot he came to the sea This means that as one left Lankā, there was a sea

Then there is a description of Rāvana's route through the sea. ( 11-36 ) As he was sitting in the chariot and as the chariot was passing through the sea, Rāvana saw the shores of the sea ( 11 ). The shore of the sea was full of various trees, lakes, large āsramas ( 12 ) It ( = sea ) had boats of the shape of hamsa and krauñca ( hamsakrauñcaplavākīrna ) It ( = the shore ) had Sārasa birds and had vimānas ( mansions, air cars ) He saw there Chandana and Aguru trees ( 22 ) He saw there cities ( 26 ). And then ( at the end ? ) he saw a Nyagrodha ( = Banyan ) tree, named Subhadra ( 35 ) Having crossed the sea thus, he reached Mārīca's āsrama

The character of the sea as is described here does not fit in with the ocean It should be remembered that it was crossed sitting in a chariot, drawn by asses, which means that it was not a sea, but a shallow expanse of water The whole description points to this character of the sea The sea which Hanumat crossed and on which Rāma built a bridge was a shallow expanse of water, passable by a chariot drawn by asses This means that water could not have been deeper than two or three feet

The Bridge ( SETU )

It is said that Rāma built a bridge on the ocean The description of the bridge as it is given in the Yuddhakānda 22nd Sarga is this

Rāma forced the sea to be shallow, and said

पर तीर गमिष्यन्ति पद्मिरेव ह्रवगमा । 6 22 3

And then Nala built the bridge The bridge was built in five days ( 22. 18-72 ) The material used was stones and trees ( 22 54-67 )

Shorn of super-natural elements, all this means that the sea was very shallow and could be crossed on foot. In certain places where the water was a little deep, trees and stones were thrown. This means a series of causeways was made

This description of the bridge confirms the character of the sea as gathered from Rāvana's crossing of it in a chariot

The bridge was built from Mt Mahendra to Mt. Suvela ( सुवेलमधिष्ठित ), which means that on the Northern end the sea was bounded by Mahendra and on the Southern end by Suvela

I have collected here data from the Rāmāyana itself about the location of various places including Lankā visited by Rāma That was my main task which I have completed

I do not want to say much about the identification of Lankā and other places, but I must declare that the identifications made by Shri T. Paramasiva Iyer seem to be more in conformity with the data that we got from the text

From what Mr Iyer has said and from a preliminary personal visit to these places I want to place the following additional facts before the readers

<sup>1</sup> It was this chariot, which was broken by Jatāyu Rāvana had no other chariot and he carried away Sītā on foot, as is testified by the description of Supārśva

There is a range of the Vindhya called the Kaimur range and another called the Bhānder range and I think that these two ranges are the places where the Vānaras searched for Sītā. There is a place called Katangi in the Madhya Pradesh, which is a bigger Bus Station. Just near this place, the Kaimur Range slopes down and ends. It was on this end, I think, that the Vānaras met Sampātī. From this end about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles to the North there is a place called Katāv (the cleft) which has been identified by Shri Iyer with Mahendradvāra. It is a cut in the Kaimur Range where the river Kair flows from the West to the East through the cleft. On the bank is a narrow road, through which Rāvana must have carried Sītā. Entering the Katāv as we go to the East in the interior, just at a short distance is a hill called Mandhrā to-day (which may stand for Mahendraka).

Just near the end of the Kaimur Range, there is a river called Kundav. This river, a little further, meets another river called Hiran<sup>1</sup>. This river then flows further and at a point about 18 miles to the North of Jubbulpore skirts round a village called Indrānā on three sides. Just to the south of Indrānā, on the other side of Hiran, is a village called Singaldīp. Indrānā itself has its outskirts dotted by several hills and one of the villages near Indrānā is called Tikudī (टिकुडी).

Can this Singaldīp be Simhaladvīpa, the dvīpa referred to by Sampātī in इतो द्वीपे समुद्रस्य सम्पूर्णं शतयोजने । 4 57 20

If so, the area of the Simhala-dvīpa must have covered adjacent villages, hills and rivers and might have even extended up to the Narmadā in the South. In this area of Simhala-dvīpa, Lankā might have been situated on one of the hill-tops near Indrānā. In this condition, the name Tikudī (which can equate with Trikūṭa) is significant. Mandhrā (above referred to) to Indrānā is about  $11\frac{1}{2}$  miles of area, which is low-lying, where water gathers in monsoon.

The Kalkī Purāna talks of a Simhala which was in the vicinity of the Revā or Narmadā. In a description of the love-lorn princess of Simhala it is said that she did not like the wind which was revā-parīsnāta (Kalkī Purāna II 26). At another place, it is said that many kings who came to ask for the hand of the princess of Simhala, were turned into women and they were restored to their original form by the grace of Kalkī on their taking a bath in the Revā (रेवास्नानात् Kalkī Purāna, II 3 18).

This proves that there was a Simhala dvīpa (it is called dvīpa in II 3 16) near the Revā or Narmadā.

Before conclusion, I should like to record my sincere thanks to those who helped me from beginning to end.

I am extremely thankful to Shri G. H. Bhatt, the General Editor, for helping me in all matters and for making several suggestions.

I am also thankful to the learned and energetic members of the Rāmāyana Department for their sincere co-operation and valuable suggestions. My thanks are also due to the Manager, M. S. University Press, for the interest and the promptness he has shown in the work.

CRITICAL NOTES AND CORRIGENDA ET ADDENDA

2)  $\tilde{N}_2$  V<sub>3</sub> B<sub>2</sub> ~ D<sub>7</sub> in 3\* call Pampā to be a river (nadi) Compare further in st 47 where Pampā is called vāri vahām Compare also 4.3 6, where even in our text Pampā is called a nadi Ct, at this place, remarks इमा नदीमिति मत्स्ये विस्तृत्वेन नदीलोपचार इति केचित् । नद्येतेत्यने । After 4 3 9, 91\* reads काननं च नदीं चेमा पम्पा च विमला शुभाम् It is likely that there was a river named Pampā and a lake also called Pampā was formed from the waters of that river Such examples of the river and the lake bearing the same name are known

4) Ādhayah There are two readings —माधय पीडयन्निव and °माधय पीडयन्नि व ādhayah emphasises mental pain

7) सज्जता in the sense of उत्सृजता

12) विप्रदीणस्य the other spelling is also correct cf. Pāṇini 8 4 11

14) दास्युहक = जलनुकुट .

16) सतापयति seems to go with मृगगावाक्षी and अनिल both. The difficulty is felt by  $\tilde{N}_2$  V<sub>1</sub> B<sub>1</sub>-3 D<sub>7</sub>, which substitute 16<sup>ab</sup> by विना विशालाक्षी सीता बाष्पजडी वृताम् This makes the sense more coherent

19) We may take विनाशाम as a compound

25) Ck has felt the difficulty as to how the bird will take Rāma to Sītā and has explained by saying त्रितप्तमीपमुपनेष्यति

9) गृह् is used in the sense of 'jumping' and not of 'swimming' Cf 9-10, also 3 1

23) Mark the instructions of Sugrīva in this stanza 12<sup>ab</sup> = Mahāvīra-carita 5 34<sup>ab</sup>, which shows that our text existed in Bhavabhūti's time (8th century AD) essentially in the same form as that in which we, at present, possess it The person described in this stanza is Kabandha whom Rāma killed earlier Kabandha is here called Danu, the son of Śrī Variant in D<sub>6</sub> 6 2-10 11 G<sub>1</sub> M<sub>1</sub> Cg puts Diti as Śrī Both these do not make sense. Danu, the son of Diti or Śrī is not known Danu and Diti are known to be sisters Earlier in Aranya-kānda, Kabandha describes himself thus (Sarga 67 7<sup>ab</sup>) श्रिया विगजिन पुत्र दनोऽग्रे विद्धि नृक्षम

This means that Kabandha was Danu's son. Someone has mixed up श्रिया विगजिन with श्रिय पुत्र. The fact remains that Kabandha was a Dānava.

A Kabandha, who learnt Atharvaveda from Sumantu is known (Vn III 69, Vy 61 50) Kabandha Ātharvana is mentioned in Brhadāra-nyaka Upaniṣad (VI 7 1) His son was Vicārin (Vedic Index 1 137) This Vicārin instructed Māndhātā (Gopatha Brāhmana 12 10). I have shown that Māndhātā was a contemporary of Rāma, having been killed by Lavana who, in turn, was killed by Śatrughna (Cf Date of Rgveda p 68-9)

1) This stanza says that Hanumat went from Rśyamūka to Malaya, where Sugrīva was waiting This means that he brought the two brothers to Rśyamūka, placed them there and then went to Sugrīva who was on Malaya This is so explained by Ck All this means that Rśyamūka and Malaya were side by side Probably, they were two peaks of one mountain

Star passages 78* and 81* presuppose that Sugrīva had gone from Rśyamūka to Malaya

9) It is said that Sugrīva took human form Actually we now know that the Vānaras were a human tribe

12) Mark the custom Cf Ck बाहुरेप प्रसारित इति वचनविश्रामाय केरळवृक्षिणो हस्तो दीयते इत्यत्र ।

14-16) Mark the rite Even the Vānaras followed such a rite This means that Agni was taken as a deity by the Vānaras also

4) Note the simile It shows that Vedic Śrutis were often lost and restored

8<sup>ab</sup> = Rāmāyanamañjarī 4 30<sup>cd</sup>

23) Note that the sorrow of Rāma, which is seen earlier in this Kānda, is now turned into anger

7

9-10) These are good subhāsitas

21) Rāma is proud of the fact that he never told a lie Cf also 4 14 13

9

1-2) The name of Vālin's father is not given here But Bd III. 7 210-15 clearly say that Rksa, the king of the Vānaras, had married Virajā (the daughter of Virāj) This Virajā had Vālin by Mahendra and Sugrīva by Sūrya Thus Vālin's father was Rksa

4) Māyāvī is here called Dundubhi's son, but that is not right He was Dundubhi's brother It is clearly said in Vy (68 28) and Br (III 6 29) that Māyāvī, Dundubhi and Mahiṣa were the sons of Maya and Rambhā Rāma [B[ed] VII 12 13] also says that Māyāvī and Dundubhi were Maya's sons and Mandodarī was their sister In this stanza also, Māyāvī is called Dundubhi's pūrvaja, but by some confusion in the text, he is called both 'Pūrvaja' and 'Suta' of Dundubhi

Similarly, later on in this Kānda, Dundubhi is described as taking the form of Mahiṣa (II 7 and 25) Actually, Dundubhi was Mahiṣa's brother All this is due to some confusion in the text

This (as also what we have said about Kabandha in an earlier note) raises the question that in spite of all our efforts at such a critical edition as the present one, we are, yet, far from the correct text of the Epic

This is also supported by the following 4<sup>cd</sup> says that Māyāvī had great enmity with Vālin for the sake of some woman (strīkṛtam) No such incident is known and Ct has to remark

अयमितिहान कचिपुराणे शोधनीयो बहुदक्षिणि As yet, we do not have such a reference in any of the major Purāṇas and if so, even here there may be some confusion in the text

11

7 and 25) Dundubhi is here described as a Mahiṣa, but see our note on 9 4 above

40) Śrī Parama Shiva Iyer, in his 'Rāmāyana and Lankā', has said that yojana, at this place, means 100 dhanusas i.e. 600 ft If so, it is not quite impossible that a strong person should be able to throw off a dead human body (Dundubhi was a man) 600 feet away and that Rāma should be able to throw the same dried up body at a distance ten times (10 yojanas, see 11 50) more

13

17) सप्तजना Cf also पुण्यजना पुण्यजनः were Rākṣasas Punyajanas were the sons and grandsons of Punyajani, the wife of Maṇibhadra (Vy 69 157) These Punyajanas had sacked Kuśasthali in the absence of Kakudmi (Vn IV 2 1)

This Āśrama lay between Rṣyamūka and Kīśkindhā

20-22) These stanzas give a mystical character to their Āśrama

27) किष्किन्धा is also spelt as किष्किन्धी See Crit. App on 4 14 5, also star passage Nos 310 and 311

14

2) विचार्य in the sense of 'turning' This is an unusual sense of वि + चर् That is why there are v 1 like विसृज्य, विसार्य, विधाय, विचाल्य, विस्तार्य and प्रसार्य Most of the S MSS have विसार्य

5) हस्तिगुरुरया See Comm for interpretations

8) विपरीत इव in the sense of 'surrounded by', not 'opposite' For various interpretations, see comm

11) मा for माम् Attempt of some MSS to turn it into माम् is not necessary

15

14) The reference to Angada knowing about the alliance between Rāma and Sugrīva seems to have appealed to all S MSS, including D MSS going with S as also to D7 (NE), which elaborate the idea by inserting the star passage 319 It is noteworthy that N2 V23 B omit 14<sup>cd</sup>, in which case, reference to Angada will disappear

19) अभ्यस्यितुम् See comm for the archaic form and the various senses given to the word

16

4) Sugrīva is called hinagrīva Sugrīva, as a name can be compared with दशग्रीव, हयग्रीव

4 16 25 ]

25) After 25, Ds 11-10 S (1 e all S MSS ) plus Ds 11 add the star passage 343*, which in 1 2 has a ring of treating Rāma as an avatāra This tendency is not seen anywhere in the constituted text of this Kānda

27) इन्द्रध्वज For Indradhvaja and fight due to it, see Nātyaśāstra Adhyāya 2 This seems to have been a very significant incident in ancient times

4) The author desires to give to Vālin a noble character See also st 7

9) This incident of Yayāti falling down from heaven after his merits (punya) were exhausted is found in Mbh I 88 1-13, Mt 25 4, 35 4-5, and Sargas 36-40 and 42

27<sup>ab</sup>) Cf, Śārngadharapaddhati, No 1299

42) This bravado of Vālin has given an opportunity to N<sup>2</sup> V B D<sub>7</sub> (1 e all NE MSS ) to insert the passage 377* The story given there occurs in Uttarakānda

6-11) Argument used by Rāma here is unusual While describing Rāma's journey from Ayodhyā, the author has said that Ayodhyā-kingdom ended at Śṅgaverapura 1 e at the Gangā

Here, in 9, Rāma argues that he and other kings followed the orders of Bharata Frontiers of Ayodhyā cannot extend up to Rśyamūka and Kīṣkindhā The only way to construe is to say that Rāma took upon himself to guard, wherever he went, the traditions of the Ikṣvākus I do not know if South Kosala included Kīṣkindhā

28) Vālin's accusation against Rāma is given in 17 12-45 and Rāma's refutation of Vālin's argument is given in 18 1-39 In a commentary on Rāmāyana called Dharmākūṭam by Tryambakārāyamakṣin, an author of the 17th century, this entire position is summarised very ably The discussion is very erudite and subtle and runs into 18 pages I quote below the relevant portions ( pp 58-77 )

Vālin's charges against Rāma are as under

अहेतुरुप्राणिवधस्तावदुक्त । हेतुरपि अत्र विचारमाणे न दृश्यते । न किं रिपुत्व वा ऋष्टकृत्व वा एनस्त्व वा । उपयुक्तमामर्चमविषाणादिमत्त वा दनने प्रत्ययाभावो वा सीतागवेपणरूपकार्य वा ।

30) Cf Manu 8 318

31) This reference to Māndhātā having punished a Śramana for his sin is obscure No such incident is found in his life in any of the known Purānas or in the Mbh N<sup>2</sup> V<sub>1</sub> B D<sub>7</sub> read श्रमण for श्रमण This श्रमण (or श्रमण) seems to have committed a sin like the one committed by Vālin 1 e the sin of having illegal relations with one's brother's wife No such incident is noted in Māndhātā's life The whole reference is obscure

34) Cf Mbh 12 141 70

38) Cf Manu 7 8 महती देवता ऐषा नररूपेण तिष्ठति

41-51) On hearing Rāma's refutation of his accusation, Vālin's mood entirely changes

51) Star passage 410, which is inserted by all the S mss, seems to give a divine character to Rāma in the prior half of J. 1 St 57 in the text shows that Rāma is not taken as avatāra.

19

24) This reference to Suparna destroying Caitya for the sake of nāga, is obscure

27) सन्धित in the sense of 'bound' is Vedic. Different readings created by MSS साधित, स्पधित, सवीत, सधिन, स्पधित are because of not knowing the earlier sense of सन्धित. Out of the S MSS, T<sub>1</sub>, M support

Tārā's lamentation covers in all 74 sts thus 19, 20-28, 20, 1-25, 21, 1-16, 22, 26, 23, 1-16, 22, 23, 26-30. Much of it is conventional, but this whole passage was added much earlier i.e. before the text bifurcated into N and S recensions

21

3<sup>d</sup>) देहेऽस्मिन्नुद्गोपमे Mark the simile Cf Gītā 211 for the idea in the stanza

7) नैन शोचितुमर्हसि cf Gītā 2 26

22

13rd) Note that Tārā's character has been raised to great heights and she is depicted as a learned lady

24

2-11) These words of Rāma and those of Hanumat in 21 2-11 reflect the popular philosophical ideas about death

5) स्वभावे वर्तते लोक । cf Gītā 5 14 स्वभावस्तु प्रवर्तते ।

23-31, also 42-43) Note the customary rites of cremation. These were followed by the Vānaras also

25

12) This means that Sugrīva was coronated in the month of Śrāvana. Vālm was killed a few days after Rāma arrived on Rsyamūka. And Rāma reached Rsyamūka about 3 or 4 days after leaving Pañcavati and Janasthāna. He might have taken 3 or 4 days in searching Sītā in Janasthāna. All this would mean that Sītā was carried away by Rāvana about 10 or 15 days before Vālm's death

26

9th) Cf Gītā, 2 27

10) Rāma is called Kṛiyāpara i.e. performing religious rites regularly. Devaparāyana has 'veda' and 'darva' as other readings. 'Deva' is vouchsafed by the majority of MSS. But taking the star passage 525, which is a substitute passage, into consideration, we have Dharmaparāyana and Harsaparāyana for Devaparāyana and they are vouchsafed by practically all the N MSS. We have adopted the S reading. There is a tendency in the S MSS to idealise

27

1) In 26 1, it is said that Rāma took his abode on the mountain Prasravana and here he is said (in all the MSS) to be residing on the Mālyavat, which means that Prasravana is the same as Mālyavat. In the colophon to the 26th Sarga, whereas all read Prasravana, D<sub>3</sub> 11 read Mālyavat

10-11) Cf Sūktimuktāvalī of Jalhana p 219 (GOS No 82)

Note the simile of learned Brāhmanas in St 10 Megha = Ajina Dhārā = yajñopavīta

15) Note the change in metre. This is not usual. Sts 14 to 32 are omitted by Ñ B<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 247 (om 14-23) 13 V<sub>1</sub> also drops several of these sts. We have relied more on the S MSS

19) आम्रफल Note the mention of mango fruit

21) बलाकपङ्क्ति Shortening of kā in balākā is metri causa

23) Cf Meghadūta 19 Note the Yamaka in this st

24) Note the figure ययासख्य in this st

31-32) Note the Anuprāsa and Yamaka in these sts. This ornate character of these sts perhaps justifies the omission of sts 15-32 as is done in Ñ B<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub> 247 13

This is varsāvarnana and such Sargas are very handy for elaboration, and that is how the inflation of the text takes place

28

9) Kaulī in the sense of 'of the kula' is unusual

29

14) चञ्चूर्य is also unusual

15-20) Note the change in the metre and note also that all these stanzas are omitted by Ś<sub>1</sub> Ñ<sub>1</sub> D<sub>1</sub>-3 11-13

24th) Cf नीलोत्पलदलश्यामा विजिह्वा मायजानना । Quoted by Sūktimuktāvalī (4 96, GOS No 82) and attributed to Śankaravarman

32) Four months of the monsoon are over. Vālin was killed and Sugrīva was coronated in Śrāvana as is already said. Therefore, these four months will bring us to the end of Kārtika. Note the discussion of the commentators about these four months.

40) Note that the commentaries want an 'iti' at the end of this verse to show the completion of the direct message to Sugrīva.

48) = Kāvya-mīmāṃsā (GOS No 1, 3rd ed, p 36) Read न स for न च

30

3) Read वीर बालिन for बालिन स. Note the discussion in the commentaries about the irregularity in the metre here.

4) 'asatyam' and 'vicayam'—both these are used in unusual senses. Earlier also we have pointed out such cases of words being used in unusual senses and at all such places we find a number of different readings spring up. All such cases point to an earlier period of the composition of the text.

34-35) Between 34 and 35 there is an abrupt break. 34 expresses Angada's words सेमित्रियमागत 35 abruptly talks about the Vānara soldiers. That is why the commentators want 'itīkarana' here.

42) वाक्यसारथि and व्यवसायथ. For the simple style of the Rāmāyana, these are unusual compounds which the commentators explain somehow.

31

3) Sugrīva has forgotten everything, being engrossed in sensual pleasures, otherwise he is sincere.

10) This speech of Hanumat shows his leanings towards Rāma and his brother. वि + स्मृ in विस्मरसि is used in the sense of remembering (विशेषेण स्मरसि).

32

4) Kiskindhā is described as a guhā in st 1. The description of the city as given here shows that it was not merely a cave. It must have been something like a hollow between two hills. It is described as full of ratnas. It had big harmyas (palaces) and various market places. It had various types of trees of which Maureya and Madhu are noteworthy. Vānaras are throughout described as fond of wine. The tract where they resided must have been rich in such trees.

33

12) For this view see the Introduction. The Mbh reference in the Crit. App (p 204) is to the Critical edition of The Mbh, Poona.

14) Kṛtam is used in the sense of 'good'.

15) Mandūkāravinam - see commentaries for explanation.

34

1) It is once again Tārā who pleads. Her character is throughout depicted as of one who is learned, serene and experienced.

7) Here Viśvāmitra is described as attached to Ghṛtācī. Commentators are divided. Some say Ghṛtācī is the same as Menkā, while others seem to be inclined to treat them as two different loves of Viśvāmitra. Only D<sub>2</sub> substitutes Menakā for Ghṛtācī.

18) After giving the strength of Rāvana's army, Tārā speaks this as an explanation. Commentators say that this information was once given by Vālin to Angada and Tārā had overheard it. Probably, this is added by someone at a later date.

19) If Sugrīva had actually asked the Vānaras to gather together as is said here, he had no reason to feel guilty and Hanumat should have known it. It seems that this is a good explanation to appease Lakṣmana and has been added later.

21) samsthā in the sense of 'limit' is noteworthy. Tārā says that these Vānaras would arrive 'adya' -to-day, while Sugrīva later on gives the limit of ten days (36, 12).

35

2) Mark the simile.

36

29-30) Mark here the description of the trees which yield food that does not make a person hungry for one month. Modern research may be noted in this connection.

37

7) Mark the custom. Only some were allowed to go in the presence of women.

38

6) Anuhlāda or Anuhrāda is given in the Purānas as a brother of Prahlaḍa and a son of Hiranyakaśipu

39-42

See Introduction for a detailed discussion of the contents of these Sargas. It has been shown there how several lines of these Sargas are taken verbatim from the Matsya Purāna

41

12-13) It is said here that there was a mountain called Hema near the confluence of the river Sindhu and the sea and there were lions at that place. As this is the description of the Western direction, this confluence of the Sindhu and the sea is proper. But no mountain is found to-day at the place where the Sindhu meets the sea. This mountain is described as having lions in it. Can this refer to the Gir range and Gir forest? These lions are called paksagamāh which is explained by the commentators as flying with wings

25) This st. says that in this direction i.e. in the West there was a city named Prāgyyotisa where Naraka ruled. All other accounts put this city in the East in Assam, only here it is put in the West. This is taken from the Mt. 163, but in the Mt. no direction is given for the location of this city. The author of these Sargas has located it in the West

Now there is a curious coincidence here. In the Jamnagar district of the Gujarat State, there is a place in the Lalpur Tālukā, which is called Gop. The famous Gop temple of the Gupta age is situated here. I have visited this place and I have heard old men of this locality saying that there was a city called Prāgyyotispura near the hill of Gop. I have not pursued the matter further, but I record it here for whatever it is worth

43

I have said in the Introduction that the Sargas 39, 40, 41, 42 are added later on. The original Rāmāyana must have contained matter corresponding to st. 1-8 of Sarga 40 and then the matter contained in this Sarga. It is noteworthy that no other party is given anything like this message to Sitā or the ring

47

2) Mark that Angada and his party entered the Vindhya mountain as soon as they left Rśyamūka. This corroborates Sugrīva's statement in the 40th Sarga that the Vindhya and the Narmadā were to the South of Rśyamūka

St. 2 says that they entered the caves and forests of the Vindhya. They moved in different places, but did not find Sitā

Then they went to another part (st. 6) which is described (st. 7-8) as having trees without flowers and fruits, as having rivers without water and as having no buffaloes, no deer, no elephants, no lions, no birds and no other beings. There were lakes having blossomed lotuses but void of bees (st. 9). There dwelt a sage named Kandu, whose ten-year old son was lost in that forest and therefore the sage had cursed the forest to be without birds etc.

One sage Kandu is mentioned in Bg. IV, 30, 13-14 and Vn. I, 15, 11-54, but there he is said to have performed penance on the banks of the Gomatī. Bd. II, 35, 48 refers to Kandu, who is taken as a pupil of Lāngali. Vy. 69, 68 refers to Kandu who was the father of thousand snakes. Mbh. (I 195 15) refers to a Kandu who is the same as one who is mentioned in Bg. and Vn. According to the Mbh., he had a daughter named Vārkhṣi who was married to ten प्रचेतस

In this forest, these Vānaras encountered an Asura and Angada, taking him to be Rāvana, killed him (15-20)

Then they went to another hollow of the mountain (21)

48

15) Once again encouraged by Angada, the Vānaras searched the southern region covered by the Vindhya forests. They did not leave the Vindhya

There they came to a rajataparvata (16), where there was a grove of Lodhra and Saptaparna trees (17)

Once again they started to search in the regions of the Vindhya (22)

49

1) They were still searching the regions of the Vindhya

2) After this st, the S MSS insert (1045*)
 वायेदुस्तस्य दान्तस्य कोटिं दक्षिणपश्चिमाम् । This would mean that they sat on the South-Western point of Vindhya. This would give us the exact location of the place where they saw the Rksabīla, but as this line is not seen in the N MSS, we have rejected it

7) Searching there, they once saw a big hollow (mahābila), from where birds were coming out. This bila is called Rksabīla in Ds 68-10 S
 (see 1049*, which is rejected in our text)

50

10) It is said, here, that this bila was constructed by Maya

11-17) It is said that Maya obtained all the wealth of Uśanas and stayed in this forest for some time. Indra killed Maya, who was attached to an Apsarā named Hemā. Later
 Brahmā gave this forest and this bila to Hemā.
 Having given this history, the Tāpasī, whom these Vānaras met in the bila, told them that she was a friend of Hemā and was protecting that house.
 Her name was Svayamprabhā and she was the daughter of Meru Sāvarnī

One Hemā, an Apsarā, is mentioned in Vy 69, 7 and 61, where she is said to be the daughter of Yama. Similarly, one Svayamprabhā, an Apsarā, is mentioned in the Mbh (3 43 29)

52

12) Svayamprabhā led them out of the bila and brought them to a place of the Vindhya mountain from where was seen Prasravana mountain on one side and the sea on the other. It should be remembered that Prasravana was the mountain where Rāma was living now

There is some historicity about this bila. In the Rāmāyana (7 12 13) it is said that Maya had two sons named Māyāvī and Dundubhī, by Hemā.
 This means that Maya had these sons after he came to live with Hemā in this bila. Both Māyāvī and Dundubhī were killed by Vālin as we learn from this Kānda. Therefore, it is this bila into which Māyāvī fled when pursued by Vālin.

 This bila, therefore, could not be very far away from Kiskindhā

This Rksabīla occurs in the story of Syaman-taka jewel<sup>1</sup>. It is, there, said that Kṛṣṇa, in order to search for Prasena, went to the Vindhya and Rksavanta<sup>2</sup> and found Prasena dead near the Rksabīla, where Jāmbavat was living. It only means that after the war of Lankā, Jāmbavat occupied this Rksabīla, where he was found by Kṛṣṇa and where Kṛṣṇa married Jāmbavatī.
 Jāmbavat's being connected with Rāma and Kṛṣṇa both need not surprise us, for the distance between Rāma and Kṛṣṇa was not much<sup>3</sup>

16) Svayamprabhā placed these Vānaras at a place from where Sāgara was seen. This place, according to this st, was at the foot of the Vindhya. Probably this foot was the South-Western point of the Vindhya (cf 49 2 notes). It was at this foot of the Vindhya, that they met
 Sampātī (cf 55 2)

53

2) The eight qualities of buddhi are given by the commentators as

शुद्धा श्रवणं चैव ग्रहणं धारणं तथा ।
 ऊहापोहाविविज्ञानं तत्त्वज्ञानं च वीरुणा ।

Similarly the fourteen gunas of the army are given as

देशकालजता दाह्यं सर्वद्वेषमहिष्णुता ।
 सर्वविज्ञानता दाक्ष्यमूर्जं सद्बलमवता ।
 अविसर्वादिता गार्थं भक्तिज्ञत्वं वृत्तज्ञता ।
 शरणागतवात्सल्यममर्षित्वमचापलम् ।

4) The commentators say that here Śukra may mean Brhaspati, or शुक्रस्यैव पुरन्दरम् विपरीतोपदेशात्
 उपमेया । It is also noted that there is a v l शुक्रैरिव
 पुरन्दरं. N<sup>2</sup> V B D<sup>7</sup> read यथा शक्रं बृहस्पते . S<sup>1</sup> N<sup>1</sup> D<sup>1</sup>-4
 12 13 read गुरोर् for शुक्रस्य

55

3) Sampātī is, here, said to have come out of a cave of the Vindhya, which means that the Vānaras are still in the Vindhya

<sup>1</sup> Bd III 71, 20 ff. The story is also found in Vy, Mt, Br and Mbh

<sup>3</sup> See my paper 'Chronological Distance between Rāma and Kṛṣṇa' in the Journal of the Oriental Institute, Baroda, Sept 1964.

57

4) Sampātī says that he and his brother Jatāyu went against the Sun after the death of Vṛtra (वृत्रवे दृते) This refers to one of the 12 devāsurasamgrāmas — the one called Vārtra <sup>1</sup>

It has been said that this devāsura war had been fought in the second epoch of Balī's life and I have shown that Bālī's grand-daughter was married to Kumbhakarna Thus Sampātī's statement that he went against the Sun after (soon after) the Vārtra war is not irrelevant Sampātī and Jatāyu both were contemporaries of Kumbhakarna

15-16) Here, Sampātī says that he himself saw Sītā being carried away by Rāvana and later on he says that his son Supārśva saw her being carried away

20) Here it is said that Lankā was situated in a dvīpa See Introduction

28) इहस्य shows that Rāvana's Lankā was within seeing distance from where they were sitting

32-34) This suggests that the Sea was quite near from this part of the Vindhya where they were sitting

59

7) In the fourth st, Sampātī says that he fell on the peak of the Vindhya and here it is said that the Vindhya was just on the shore of the Southern Sea, which means that the sea, which Hanumat and Rāma crossed, began just from the foot of this portion of the Vindhya See Introduction

61

8-9) This reference about Sītā's food is a little obscure

15) Jāmbavat, here, says that he was present at the sacrifice of Balī, and had gone round Vāmana, 21 times Earlier we have seen that Sampātī and Jatāyu were contemporaries of Balī and Kumbhakarna Same is the case with Jāmbavat He says (here as well as in 65 30) that he was a contemporary of Balī <sup>2</sup>

66

8) In Gujarātī folk-lore, there is a tradition that Anjanā, the mother of Hanumat was a daughter of Ahalyā See Āpnī Lokasamskrī by Jayamallā Parmar, p 145
